POTTERY PLANT OWNERS PLAN ANNUAL MEET IN NEW YORK

Manufacturers Will Open Session on December 9.

DINNER FEATURE

Marks Observance of 50th Anniversary of Organization.

The United States Potters' Association, organized 50 years ago, will celebrate its golden anniversary in connection with the annual meeting which will be held in New York, on Tuesday and Wednesday, December 9 and 10.

Delegates for the session of the association, made up of manufacturers of general ware, were set at a recent meeting of the executive committee. All sessions will be held in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, Fifth avenue.

As a rule, the annual meetings of the general ware manufacturers' organization is held in Washington, but in view of the fact that the association this year is celebrating its fiftieth birthday, the committee decided the meeting should be held in New York where the organization was born.

Arrange Program.

Program for the meeting is now being arranged. As has been the custom of former annual meetings, two-day sessions will likely be held. The convention will end on Dec. 10 with a banquet and election of officers.

D. William Scammell, of the Scammell China company, Trenton, N. J., is president of the association which maintains its national headquarters on the second floor of the George C. Thompson building, corner Fourth and Market streets, this city, with Secretary-Treasurer Charles F. Goodwin in charge.

School Masters' Club Dinner in Wellsville Friday

School teachers from all parts of Columbiana county are expected to attend a meeting of the Columbiana School Masters' club which will be held in the First United Presbyterian church, Wellsville, Friday evening.

At 6:30 o'clock a dinner will be served by the ladies of the church. This will be followed by a program, in which Prof. Earl Moore, head of the English department at Geneva college, Beaver Falls, Pa., will be the speaker. The meeting will be in charge of C. M. Rohrbaugh, principal of the Salem high school, and president of the club.

Members of the East Liverpool school faculty who will attend include Supt. F. P. Geiger, Musical Supervisor H. F. Laughlin, Horace E. Hall, O. V. Boone, E. W. Shirley, W. T. Tweedy, L. E. Miller, I. A. Hoffman, A. C. Moore, H. D. Rist and E. O. Harries.

BAN LOITERING AT CITY HALL

Screen Erected in Police Office Following "Leaks."

As the result of a number of alleged "leaks," following important tips received at city hall, steps have been taken to halt loitering in the police department office.

Just inside the entrance to the office has been erected a screened compartment, large enough only to permit the door to open. The door in the screen is kept locked, keys being held only by the police force members, councilmen, mayor and safety director.

According to Chief McDermott, many complaints against loitering in the office have been made. Citizens having complaints have been compelled to call the officer away from his desk if the matter is to be kept secret. It is claimed the erection of a barricade is the only means of preventing the "leaks."

Ray Felton Hurt For Third Time In Auto Crash

Ray Felton, eight-year old son of Mrs. George Wynn, of Church alley, is suffering from injuries sustained Tuesday evening, in his third traffic accident in less than six months.

The lad was crossing the street at the corner of Fifth and Market streets, when he broke loose from his sister's grasp and stepped in front of an automobile driven by Earl Kraft. He was picked up by Kraft and taken to the hospital where an examination showed his right arm and right leg had been injured.

Last May 25, he was run down by a car in Harvey avenue and his left leg broken. While Roy Hissam, street car conductor, was taking him to the City hospital, Hissam's automobile and another crashed at the corner of Fifth and Jefferson streets, the lad's nose being broken in this accident.

MURPHY, HAYS AND CARPENTER GET BIG VOTE

Record Pluralities for Congressman and State Senators.

OFFICIAL COUNT

Murphy Has 29,900 Lead in Eighteenth District.

Congressman Frank Murphy of Steubenville, Republican nominee for congress from the 18th district, was given a majority of 29,900 votes over Jesse M. Barton, Bellaire, his Democratic opponent, according to the official tabulation of the district, which has just been completed by the Belmont county election board.

Murphy polled 56,206 votes as compared to 26,306 ballots cast for the Democratic nominee, Charles Coleman, Martin's Ferry, who sought the Congressional seat on the Independent ticket received but 1,933 votes. Murphy carried every county in the district, but was given his biggest majority in Columbiana county which gave him a lead of more than 12,000 votes.

H. M. Carpenter, of Steubenville, and J. D. Hays, of St. Clairsville, seeking reelection as members of the state Senate from the 20th-22nd district, were easy winners over their Democratic opponents. Senator Carpenter led W. L. Kinsey, Democrat, by 31,000.

SESSION SLATED IN E. LIVERPOOL

Common Pleas Court Ruling is Appealed by War Chest Board, Red Cross and City Hospital.

The Columbiana county appellate court Wednesday postponed the second round of the fight for the East Liverpool's $45,000 war chest.

Upon application of the principals, the court agreed to name a referee, who will hear evidence and submit it at the next session of the court for a decision. The referee will be named this week.

Lower Court Ruling The case was carried to the court of appeals by the executive board of the War Chest, the East Liverpool Chapter of the Red Cross and the East Liverpool City Hospital Association after common pleas court had ordered that the fund be kept intact and that the interest on the money be used for the relief of disabled and needy veterans. This ruling was given after the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars had instituted injunction proceedings against the executive board, restraining them from disbursing the money to the hospital and the Red Cross as had been planned.

The two parties in the action will recommend attorneys for appointment as referee. The testimony will be heard in East Liverpool.

Attorney R. G. Thompson is representing the board, hospital and Red Cross, while attorneys William S. Foulke and Stevenson, of East Liverpool; Francis J. Cook, Cleveland, and Gilbert Bettman, of Cincinnati, are counsel for the soldier organizations.

Harry Anderson Fined $100 by Mayor; Automobile is Held

Harry Anderson, Walnut street, was fined $100 and costs by Mayor Charles Brown Wednesday morning, after he entered a plea of guilty of a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Anderson was arrested in the Diamond by Patrolman James Haley at 3:30 o'clock Wednesday morning. Police say several empty whiskey bottles were found in the machine. Anderson's car was held by the police pending the payment of his fine.

Fire Damages Experiment Station.

WOOSTER, O., Nov. 12.—Loss estimated today at $30,000 was caused last night by fire which destroyed a large sheep barn and two silos at the Ohio experiment station here. The blaze broke out a few minutes after the men had finished the evening chores. No insurance was carried.

NATIONS PLAN RESTRICTIONS ON SUBMARINES AND AIRCRAFT

PEACE MOVEMENT

British Government Ready to Attend Conference.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—President Coolidge is only awaiting a favorable opportunity to take the initiative in calling another world arms conference—if, indeed, "feelers" in that direction have not already been put out by this government, it was ascertained today in administration quarters.

The primary purpose of such a conference would be to accomplish what the Washington Conference left undone; to wit, limit the production of aircraft for war purposes, limit the size and number of submarines; limit the size and equipment of land forces, and codify international law.

London Believes Time Ripe.

The President is strongly committed to the belief that the cause of world peace can best, and perhaps only, be furthered by the holding of another conference similar in intent and accomplishment to that held in Washington under Harding.

Dispatches from London, indicating that the British government believes the time is ripe, were viewed in Washington today as extremely significant. While officials generally declined to comment publicly on these dispatches, they did point out with some significance the last word on this subject spoken by President Coolidge in a public address, as follows: "When the reparations plan (the Dawes plan) is in operation, to show that it is an appropriate time to approach the great powers with a proposal for another conference for further limitation of armaments and for devising plans for a codification of international law."

"I personally favor entering covenants for the purpose of outlawing aggressive war by any practical means."

Barriers Removed. The reparations plan is now in operation and has been for many weeks.

And, what is more important, the British and American governments, upon which must fall the majority work in promoting another world parley, are now assuredly stable for some years ahead. President Coolidge has just been elected for a four-year term. In England, Premier Stanley Baldwin and his Tory government are in the saddle for at least five

Arrangements have been completed for a farmer's institute, which will be held in the town hall at Calcutta by the Calcutta Grange, assisted by state workers, on Monday and Tuesday, December 15 and 16.

Three members of the extension department of the Ohio State University, Columbus, including a poultry specialist and a woman worker, will take part in the two-day meeting, which will be featured by morning, afternoon and evening sessions.

The hall will be attractively decorated for the occasion in flags and bunting, the entire community being appointed on this committee. The decorations will be arranged on Saturday, December 13. The ladies of the

President is Awaiting Opportunity to Invite Powers.

PEACE MOVEMENT

British Government Ready to Attend Conference.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—President Coolidge is only awaiting a favorable opportunity to take the initiative in calling another world arms conference—if, indeed, "feelings" in that direction have not already been put out by this government, it was ascertained today in administration quarters.

The primary purpose of such a conference would be to accomplish what the Washington Conference left undone: to wit, limit the production of aircraft for war purposes, limit the size and number of submarines; limit the size and equipment of land forces, and codify international law.

London Believes Time Ripe.

The President is strongly committed to the belief that the cause of world peace can best, and perhaps only, be furthered by the holding of another conference similar in intent and accomplishment to that held in Washington under Harding.

Dispatches from London, indicating that the British government believes the time is ripe, were viewed in Washington today as extremely significant. While officials generally declined to comment publicly on these dispatches, they did point out with some significance the last word on this subject spoken by President Coolidge in a public address, as follows:

"When the reparations plan (the Dawes plan) is in operation, I shall deem it an appropriate time to approach the great powers with a proposal for another conference for further limitation of armaments and for devising plans for a codification of international law."

"I personally favor entering covenants for the purpose of outlawing aggressive war by any practical means."

Barriers Removed.

The reparations plan is now in operation and has been for many weeks. And, what is more important, the British and American governments, upon which must fall the majority work in promoting another world parley, are now assuredly stable for some years ahead. President Coolidge has just been elected for a four-year term. In England, Premier Stanley Baldwin and his Tory government are in the saddle for at least five years.

125 TO ATTEND KIWANIS PARTY

Friday Will be Ladies' Night at Larkins Annex.

One hundred and twenty-five guests are expected to attend the Ladies Night Party which members of the Kiwanis Club will give at Larkins Annex, Market street, at 6:15 o'clock, Friday evening.

The program will be strictly musical, with Miss Mildred Weaver, pianist; Mrs. Richard Sant, soprano; Wallace Bradford, tenor, and Miss Ruth Hedderston, reader, participating. Attorney George E. Davidson will deliver a short talk, "A Few Words From Old Staffordshire."

Music will be rendered on Ampico baby grand electric piano, furnished by Olen Dawson, president of the club. The program will follow the dinner.

Reservations must be made with Harry Hoffman, secretary of the club, not later than Thursday. Attendance prizes will be given the guests. Glad handlers who will officiate at this meeting will be Ralph Couch, Claire Chambers, Rev. Lionel C. Dufford and Bert Erlanger. This dinner will take the place of the weekly luncheon.

LIQUOR ISSUE CONTROVERSIAL

What is Intoxicating
Booze? Home Brewers Encouraged.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The whole controversial question of what is and what is not intoxicating liquor has been opened up again by the ruling of Judge Soper in the Hill case at Baltimore that home brew does not necessarily have to be checked at the one-half of one percent stage.

This was the reaction of prohibition officials here today to the decision. Stripped of its legal verbiage and technicalities, Judge Soper's decision was that home brew can exceed the one-half of one percent alcoholic volume provided that it is "not in fact intoxicating."

And foes of prohibition were quick to point out today that there is no accepted definition of intoxicating liquor. What is intoxicating for one man might leave another man cold.

Ultimately, it is expected the whole matter will go again to the United States Supreme Court.

Alcoholic Content.
Under the present law, Congress has fixed the legal alcoholic content of liquor, hooch home brew or what not at one-half of one percent.

More than that as the law stands, it is intoxicating.

However, Judge Soper's ruling is to the general effect that Congress did not mean what it said in fixing the one-half of one percent limit, as applied to home brewers. Those who brew their own can, under this ruling, allow nature to take its course in their cellars up to the point of "intoxicating in fact." What, then, is "intoxicating in fact?" The differences of opinion are as many and varied as those involving cross word puzzles.

Judge Soper's Ruling.
The actual effect of Judge Soper's ruling is, prohibition officials say, that the art of home brewing has been granted a new lease on life, at least temporarily.

The prohibition department has been proceeding on the theory that a man has no right to brew beverages in his home that exceed one-half of one percent. It is upon this theory that the test case involving Congressman Hill's cider party was instituted.

Now, however, a home brewer can exceed the legal limit provided his brew "is not, in fact, intoxicating."

Prohibition officials decline to discuss what effect the ruling will have on their present policy.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 12.—The case of Congressman John Phillip Hill, on trial in United States district court here on charges of violating the Volstead act through manufacture of wine and cider, was resumed at 10 o'clock today with the advantage favoring the defendant.

Momentous court rulings have been given, affecting drastically the whole body of the dry law.

Chief among these is the ruling of Judge Soper stating in substance that home manufacture of fruit juices for home beverage consumption is not necessarily limited to alcoholic content of one-half of one percent, the maker of admittedly higher alcoholic beverages being entitled to present evidence to show said beverages are not intoxicating "in fact."

Hill took the stand to testify that he had not experienced the slightest intoxicating effect from drinking these beverages of his own manufacture and numerous defense witnesses testified to similar effect.

WHEN BACK HURTS
FLUSH OUT KIDNEYS

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract.

Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulate them to their normal activity.

The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which every one should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

DEATH ROLL

Mrs. Margaret Miller.
Mrs. Margaret Miller, 50 years old, died Tuesday at her home in Los Angeles, Cal. She had been ill for six weeks. Death resulted from complications.

Deceased, who was a former resident of East Liverpool, leaves two children and the following brothers and sisters: W. H. Campbell, James H. Campbell and Bernard Campbell, Los Angeles; E. F. Campbell, Newark; Mrs. J. W. Sargeant, Mrs. C. M. Barborough, Mrs. Alice Kennedy, Mrs. Agnes Campbell, Los Angeles, and Mrs. J. A. Dimmeling, East Liverpool.

War Veterans

behave. Noisy greetings were given all as they rose upon Mr. McEwan's invitation to be recognized.

Meeting in their quarters in Sixth street, they, headed by the Salvation Army band, paraded up town districts before marching to the tabernacle.

Other veterans of the World War who did not come to the meeting with the American Legion unit also stood up at the request of Mr. McEwan. In all sections of the auditorium, they received the applause of the grateful audience.

"The Odd Fellows were the first order to refuse admittance to persons engaged in the nefarious liquor traffic," declared Dr. Biederswolf in welcoming the visiting lodges and ex-soldiers. "I have always remembered that about them and always enjoy their coming to my meetings. I know, too, something of the high ideals for which your organization stands."

Laude Rebekahs.
Equally complimentary were his remarks to the Rebekahs.

"I was the first preacher asked by the War Council while in a meeting like this at Madison, Wis., to go to France to aid the soldiers," he said. "I accepted, but after every effort to do so I failed because of my German name which the authorities held would cause me too much trouble in getting about the various provinces. I, accordingly, worked and preached to soldiers in the American camps. But I went over after the war and visited the spots on which the ordered wooden crosses register the names of those who made the supreme sacrifice."

"Some people are asking who won the war. I will tell you it was every man who wore a uniform. They made victory possible and to them goes the credit for our present security."

Referring to his own army experience in the Spanish-American war in which he was chaplain in an Indiana regiment, he caused a laugh by saying, "It was during that struggle I fought, died and 'died' for my country."

"The Star Spangled Banner," with every one standing, intensified the patriotic fervor of the exercises just preceding Dr. Biederswolf's remarks.

Duet Is Feature.
An additional feature of the night's program was a duet by Mrs. Homer J. Taylor, of the Park boulevard and her sister, Mrs. Will Murphy, of Sebring. They sang: "Jesus Whispers I Am With You." Mr. McEwan sang "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say."

Before Dr. Biederswolf spoke, Dr. McLeod, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, reminded the audience of the annual Red Cross drive now on in East Liverpool and urged its joining for the beneficent work being done locally by the organization.

Dividing his theme into three queries: "Could Christ raise from the dead?" "Did he rise from the dead?" and "Why did God raise Him from the dead?" Dr. Biederswolf asserted that admitting God was God all was possible with Him and consequently Christ could rise. He asserted the empty tomb proved He had risen and decreed as ridiculous viewpoints that the body was stolen either by the disciples of His enemies or that He had but gone into unconsciousness from which he revived and escaped and finally that the occurrence was but a vision or hallucination of those who saw it.

Purposes of Resurrection.
"Would 500 persons who saw Him after the resurrection have a hallucination at the same time?" he asked. "Do even two persons have such a thing happen to them. There is nothing to such a theory for Christ did rise as it is written."

"For what purpose then did He rise? There were four: To make good His word and to establish once for all and beyond all doubt the birth of His glorious divinity; to furnish every believer God-given assurance; to prove the certainty of the judgment to come and to guarantee immortality to those united by faith in Jesus Christ."

With rare, but perceptible, analysis Dr. Biederswolf carried his hearers with him as he brought forward and tore down the viewpoints of those opposing the fact of Christ's resurrection. This done he declared its importance in the Spiritual and religious economy.

"If the Resurrection of Christ did not occur, then what have we upon which to rest our faith except a man-made religion?" he interrogated. "But he was and so Christ Jesus becomes for us the way, the truth and the life. Will you accept Him?"

And more than 25 persons, young, middle aged and old, did. Some even came forward while the evangelist was giving the first instructions. All finally engaged in prayer in which Dr. Biederswolf led. Preceding this, Dr. J. O. Campbell, pastor of the United Presbyterian church, made a special prayer for those indicating penitence.

Following the service, Dr. Biederswolf held a conference with the cooperating ministers.

Mr. McEwan was temporarily absent from the service long enough to sink at the graduating exercises of East Liverpool nurse, but returned in time to conduct the choir at the close of Dr. Biederswolf's sermon.

John Garvey Fined $75.
John Garvey of West End entered a plea of guilty of a charge of assault when he was arraigned before Mayor Brown, Tuesday afternoon, and was fined $25 and costs. He also drew a fine of $50 and costs on a charge of a serious nature, filed by his step-daughter. Garvey paid part of the fine and arranged for settlement of the remainder.

Mrs. W. G. Harding's Condition Reported More Encouraging

MARION, O., Nov. 12.—News from the sick room of Mrs. Warren G. Harding at White Oaks farm was more encouraging today than for several days. Mrs. Harding, after about five hours' sleep last night, was more cheerful this morning and ate a pretty good breakfast at the suggestion of Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, her personal physician.

"Mrs. Harding slept about five hours last night," Dr. Sawyer's statement said this morning. "She is stronger and more cheerful this morning. The complications and other conditions which have been present are unchanged."

Frank Baker, Arrested At Marietta, Will Face Court Here

Frank Baker of Marietta is enroute back to East Liverpool in custody of Constable T. C. Smith to answer a charge of removing a mortgaged automobile from the county.

Baker was arrested by the sheriff in Washington county Tuesday after information against him had been filed by the Liverpool Motor Car company of this city, charging him with removing an automobile upon which they held a mortgage for $251.

He will be given a hearing before P. V. Mackall.

Progressive Club Calls Meeting for Thursday Evening

The Progressive club of East Liverpool will meet in Trades and Labor council hall, Washington street, at 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening to go to France for affiliation with the National Progressive party. Mrs. Agatha R. Ryan, secretary, announced Wednesday.

the national organization for six years.

During the last three years farm values have shrunk more than twenty billion dollars, Taber told the National Grange delegates when the annual convention opened.

The farmer's tax burden has reached a limit, he said.

"Crushing tax burdens lead to the decadence of agriculture and always have been a forerunner of civilization's doom in the nation in which they have been imposed," he declared.

"During 1923 more than 1,000,000 workers left the farms. The cure for this state of affairs will come through adherence to sound business principles and not through legislation."

Cooperative marketing and production were urged by Taber to make farming profitable. He asserted also that farmers of the nation stand for rigid law enforcement, specifically citing the 18th amendment.

William Farnum
In Feature Picture
At Ceramic Theatre

"The Man Who Fights Alone," at the Ceramic Theatre Wednesday, is unusual in theme and gripping in story. What is more it marks the screen comeback of William Farnum, this time under the Paramount banner. On top of that it has a superb supporting cast headed by lovely Lois Wilson and Edward Horton, both featured. Wallace Worsley directed the production.

"The Man Who Fights Alone" is from the story "The Miracle of Fate." You have all heard a lot about the miracles that have been performed by love, but sometimes the terrific emotional power of hate can do things even more startling.

Farnum has the role of a twofisted engineer who wins the love of a beautiful girl who had also been courted by his best friend. Ill health makes it necessary for him to form a partnership with his friend who is an honorable man in every respect. A day after day he sees his wife and his friend talking, laughing, enjoying each other's company, suspicion and bitterness creep into his heart until there comes a time when his mind is so warped that he resolves upon a desperate course of action. How his little daughter saves him from the consequences of his own folly and how he is made to see his jealousy is without foundation, form a mighty climax that will send the red blood tingling and coursing thru your veins.

70 Orphans Guests Of Elks' Lodge at Armistice Day Party

Seventy children from the McCulloch-Jefferson county home at Yellow Creek were given an automobile ride about the outskirts of the city, attended a matinee at the Strand theatre, did full justice to a chicken dinner, danced and enjoyed themselves thoroughly as the guests of East Liverpool lodge No. 258, B. P. O. Elks, at the lodge's annual Armistice day observance Tuesday.

In automobiles specially provided for the occasion the tots went to Calcutta, back through Thompson park into the East End and to the Elks' club in West Fifth street. Their forces marshaled again following the ride, they went in a body to the theatre and immediately after the performance enjoyed a chicken dinner at the club, served by a committee of Ladies of the Elks.

The ball room of the lodge was turned over to the youthful guests until 9 o'clock when they returned home on special street cars. From 9 o'clock until midnight members of the lodge entertained at the dance. Music was provided by the Demar Miller and Sayre orchestras.

Nations Plan

years. No governmental overtures in either country stand in the way of such a parity.

Another barrier to the calling of a conference has been the continued French occupation of the Ruhr. The French are now out of the Ruhr and the thousands of French soldiers necessary to that undertaking are now resting on their arms with nothing to do.

The French have always been the stumbling block in the pathway of a new conference. On at least three occasions since the Washington Conference, Great Britain and the United States have been in accord that the time was ripe for a new conference, but on each occasion French objections have frustrated it.

Two Important Questions.
Whether with the Dawes plan now in operation, the French out of the Ruhr and French finances somewhat stabilized by the new Morgan loan, the French will meet the English-speaking nations half way, remains to be seen.

It was the French attitude at the Washington conference that necessitated a second conference—France refused to consider limitation of land armaments, submarines or aircraft, and threatened to bolt the conference if these subjects were taken up. Under the circumstances there was nothing left to do but to postpone their consideration.

There are two important questions to be settled, however, in the summoning of another conference. There is reason to believe that both are now being discussed in the capitals of the nations concerned. One is the attitude to be taken toward Russia, the other is whether the conference should be held in America or in Europe.

Any consideration of land armaments would have to take Russia into account, for Russia now has the largest standing army in Europe.

Every first-class government in the world has now recognized Russia, save the United States. That presents complications, which officials here were unwilling to discuss today.

War Debt Attitude.
Britain favors the second conference being held abroad. America does not look with much favor on this proposal, believing that old world jealousies and rivalries would be much more apt to intrude and mar the work of the conference than if it were held in the tranquil atmosphere of Washington.

Another barrier, that, in the past, has stood in the way of a conference has been the French insistence that the subject of war debts be considered concurrently with any talk of arms limitation. The American government has always opposed this and will continue to oppose it.

With the reparations problem on the way to settlement now, there is reason to believe that the French government will not be so insistent upon debt discussion in conjunction with a new arms conference.

Tories Await Invitation.
LONDON, Nov. 12.—England was eagerly waiting today for an American invitation to another disarmament conference.

There is little doubt that such a move by President Coolidge would be welcomed by the Tory government as a real escape from the proposed Geneva protocol.

Political circles were inclined to interpret the speech of Sir Auckland Geddes yesterday as Great Britain's surrender to the United States leadership in the world humanitarian movements. It is apparent that Premier Stanley Baldwin is desirous of the closest cooperation with the United States.

The Tories, on whose heavy victory Baldwin swept back into Premier-ship, are inclined to oppose the Geneva pact. The Daily Telegraph publishes today an article by Lieutenant-Colonel Reppington, who has just returned from a tour of Europe, stating his belief that the Geneva agreement is premature, that it would cause dissension and constitute a real danger to peace.

Carrollton Will Dedicate Catholic Church on Sunday

CARROLLTON, O., Nov. 10.—More than a century has passed since Carrollton was named in honor of Charles Carroll of Carrollton, Md., the last surviving signer of the Declaration of Independence, and a Catholic. Sunday, November 16, Carrollton will see the dedication of its first Catholic church.

Dinner will be served at 1 p. m. A reception will be held afternoon and evening.

The church of Our Lady of Mercy, designed by Kraus and Halenkamp, Akron architects, is being erected on an 8-acre tract of land adjoining the corporation on the west at the junction of the Canton and New Philadelphia highways. This tract of land was bought as a site for a hospital of a girl's training school.

Catholics of Malvern, Canton, Massillon, Alliance, Akron, New Philadelphia, Dover and other nearby towns will join with Father Anthony Nickel and his congregation in the services. Rev. Nickel, formerly of Holy Cross church, Columbus, established the first Catholic church in Carrollton, Dec. 13, 1923.

An impressive scene was witnessed on July 27, when Father Weigand of Steubenville, together with Fr. Hazel of Massillon and Fr. Mandery of Mages and Fr. Nickel laid the cornerstone.

The speakers, including Judge O'Neil of Akron, Joseph Blake and Frank Zink of Canton, and George O'Brien of Alliance, made a great impression upon the 3,000 people who came from far and wide.

Charles G. Norris' Novel, "Bread," on Screen at American

Before becoming a motion picture actor, Hobart Bosworth, who plays an important part in the Metro-Goldwyn picturization of Charles G. Norris' novel, "Bread," at the American theatre Wednesday, was noted as a boxer and wrestler. After leaving his home town in Marietta, Ohio, he was in turn sailor, fighter, wrestler, stevedore, longshoreman, cow puncher and actor.

His stage career began in stock in New York. He then became stage director of the California Stock company, after which he was leading man for Mrs. Fiske, Julia Marlowe and others.

He reluctantly accepted a part in a picture. But after he had made a number of one-reel pictures such as "The Courtship of Miles Standish," "The Virginian" and "Evangeline," he became interested in his new profession, to which he has devoted practically all his attention ever since.

Among his best pictures are "The Sea Wolf," "Behind the Door," "The Eternal Three," "Vanity Fair," "The Man Life Passed By" and "In the Palace of the King."

"Bread" is a picturization of Charles G. Norris' famous novel as published by E. P. Dutton and Company. Albert Lewyn and Lenore Coffey adapted it to the screen and Victor Scherzinger directed.

Authorities Search For Maude Norris,
16, Reported Missing

East Liverpool police and county probation authorities are searching for Maude Norris, 16-year-old Fourth street girl, a ward of the probate court, who has been missing since last Thursday evening.

Ralph Hebron, Ravine street, is at liberty on $1,000 bail, charged with contributing to the girl's delinquency.

The Norris girl and a friend were met last Thursday evening by Hebron and a companion, while they were going to the tabernacle, police say. At the close of the services, the two girls accompanied Hebron and his friend for a walk. The two couples became separated and Hebron told the police that he left the girl at the corner of Sixth street and Broadway about an hour later.

The case was to have been heard before Mayor Brown Tuesday afternoon, but was postponed until a thorough search could be made for the girl. Hebron denies knowledge of her whereabouts. It is thought that she may be in hiding in West Virginia.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Railroad stocks assumed the leadership in the stock market in the early trading today. The feature of the first period was strength and activity of St. Louis, San Francisco, common, which jumped 3 points to a new high at 50, at the opening and sold in large blocks between that price and 48, the demand being due to rumors that the stock is to be placed on a dividend base early next year. Rock Island, Reading, Missouri, Kansas and Texas, Pere Marquette and New Haven were in good demand while Atchafalpa and New York Central were irregular. Southern Pacific continued its upward movement with an advance to a new high above 105.

Mixed movements characterized the oil stocks as well as the high prices of industrials, which scored the spectacular advances at the close of the previous session. Cast Iron Pipe went through its best previous record and sold at a new high at 130 and General Electric was up about 3 points, but American Can did not reach the high point of yesterday's session and Baldwin and other high-priced leaders lost about one point.

The oils were in good supply and reactions were made in Caden, Sinclair and other active oils, while Pure Oil continued its advance to a new high at 27 and both the Standard Oils and Pan-Americans sold higher. Another price rise in gasoline, wholesale, emphasized the gradual improvement of the petroleum industry.

Further upward progress was made today by American Sugar and American Woolen which have borne the brunt of heavy selling in recent sessions. American Sugar at 45½ showed a recovery or 9½ points from the low of two weeks ago and American Woolen at 59½, a recovery of about 8 points.

Continental Can was pushed forward as American Can appeared to have reached its high level for the time being. Continental gained 3 points, at 62, also recording a new high for the year.

Allied Chemical, Foundation company, Savage Arms and other specialty stocks continued the sharp advance which has been in progress for a week or more. Radio corporation made a new high at 33½.

LIQUOR ISSUE CONTROVERSIAL

What is Intoxicating Booze? Home Brew- ers Encouraged.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 12.—The case of Congressman John Philip Hill, on trial in United States district court here on charges of violating the Volstead act through manufacture of wine and cider, was resumed at 10 o'clock today with the advantage favoring the defendant.

Momentous court rulings have been given, affecting drastically the whole body of the dry law.

Chief among these is the ruling of Judge Soper stating in substance that home manufacture of fruit juices for home beverage consumption is not necessarily limited to alcoholic content of one half of one percent, the maker of admittedly higher alcoholic beverages being entitled to present evidence to show said beverages are not intoxicating "in fact."

Hill took the stand to testify that he had not experienced the slightest intoxicating effect from drinking these beverages of his own manufacture and numerous defense witnesses testified to similar effect.

WHEN BACK HURTS FLUSH OUT KIDNEYS

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that irritate the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulate them to their normal activity.

The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. The famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

DEATH ROLL

Mrs. Margaret Miller.

Mrs. Margaret Miller, 50 years old, died Tuesday at her home in Los Angeles, Cal. She had been ill for six weeks. Death resulted from complications.

Deceased, who was a former resident of East Liverpool, leaves two children and the following brothers and sisters: W. H. Campbell, James H. Campbell and Bernard Campbell, Los Angeles; E. F. Campbell, Newark; Mrs. J. W. Sargeant, Mrs. C. M. Barborough, Mrs. Alice Kennedy, Mrs. Agnes Campbell, Los Angeles, and Mrs. J. A. Dimmerling, East Liverpool.

War Veterans

behave. Noisy greetings were given all as they rose upon Mr. McEwan's invitation to be recognized.

Meeting in their quarters in Sixth street, they, headed by the Salvation Army band, paraded up town districts before marching to the tabernacle.

Other veterans of the World War who did not come to the meeting with the American Legion unit also stood up at the request of Mr. McEwan. In all sections of the auditorium, they received the applause of the grateful audience.

"The Odd Fellows were the first order to refuse admittance to persons engaged in the nefarious liquor traffic," declared Dr. Biederwolf in welcoming the visiting lodges and ex-soldiers. "I have always remembered that about them and always enjoy their coming to my meetings. I know, too, something of the high ideals for which your organization stands."

Equally complimentary were his remarks to the Rebekahs.

"I was the first preacher asked by the War Council while in a meeting like this at Madison, Wis., to go to France to aid the soldiers," he said. "I accepted, but after every effort to do so I failed because of my German name which the authorities held would cause too much trouble in getting about the various provinces. I, accordingly, worked and preached to soldiers in the American camps. But I went over after the war and visited the spots on which the ordered wooden crosses register the names of those who made the supreme sacrifice."

"Some people are asking who won the war. I will tell you it was every man who wore a uniform. They made victory possible and to them is the credit for our present security."

Referring to his own army experience in the Spanish-American war in which he was chaplain in an Indiana regiment, he caused a laugh by saying: "It was in that struggle I fought, bled and died for my country."

"The Star Spangled Banner," with every one standing, intensified the patriotic fervor of the exercises preceding Dr. Biederwolf's remarks.

Duet Is Feature. An additional feature of the night's program was a duet by Mrs. Homer J. Taylor, of the Park boulevard and her sister, Mrs. Will Murphy, of Sebring. They sang: "Jesus Whispers I Am With You." Mr. McEwan sang "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say."

Before Dr. Biederwolf spoke, Dr. McLeod, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, reminded the audience of the annual Red Cross drive now on in East Liverpool and urged its joining for the beneficent work being done locally by the organization.

Dividing his theme into three queries: "Could Christ raise from the dead?" "Did he rise from the dead?" and "Why did God raise Him from the dead?" Dr. Biederwolf asserted that admitting God was God all was possible with Him and consequently Christ could rise. He asserted the empty tomb proved He had risen and decreed as ridiculous viewpoints the body was stolen either by the disciples of His enemies or that He had but gone into unconsciousness from which he revived and escaped and finally that the occurrence was but a vision or hallucination of those who saw it.

Purposes of Resurrection. "Would 500 persons who saw Him after the resurrection have a hallucination at the same time?" he asked. "Do even two persons have such a thing happen to them. There is nothing to such a theory for Christ did rise as it is written."

"For what purpose then did He rise? There were four: To make good His word and to establish one for all and beyond all doubt the birth of His glorious divinity; to furnish every believer God-given assurance that he is justified in Christ Jesus; to prove the certainty of the judgment to come and to guarantee immortality to those united by faith in Jesus Christ."

With rare, but perceptible, analysis Dr. Biederwolf carried his hearers with him as he brought forward and tore down the viewpoints of those opposing the fact of Christ's resurrection. This done he declared its importance in the spiritual and religious economy.

"If the Resurrection of Christ did not occur, then what have we upon which to rest our faith except a man-made religion?" he interrogated. "But he was and so Christ Jesus became for us the way, the truth and the life. Will you accept Him?"

And more than 25 persons, young, middle aged and old, did. Some even came forward while the evangelist was giving the first instructions. All finally engaged in prayer in which Dr. Biederwolf led them. Preceding this, Dr. J. O. Campbell, pastor of the Second United Presbyterian church, made a special prayer for those indicating penitence.

Following the service, Dr. Biederwolf held a conference with the cooperating ministers.

Mr. McEwan was temporarily absent from the service long enough to sing at the graduating exercises of East Liverpool nurses, but returned in time to conduct the choir at the close of Dr. Biederwolf's sermon.

John Garvey Fined $75. John Garvey of West End entered a plea of guilty of a charge of assault when he was arraigned before Mayor Brown, Tuesday afternoon, and was fined $75 and costs. He also drew a fine of $50 and costs on a charge of a serious nature, filed by his stepdaughter. Garvey paid part of the fine and arranged for settlement of the remainder.

Mrs. W. G. Harding's Condition Reported More Encouraging

MARION, O., Nov. 12.—News from the sick room of Mrs. Warren G. Harding at White Oaks farm was more encouraging today than for several days. Mrs. Harding, after about five hours' sleep last night, was more cheerful this morning and ate a pretty good breakfast at the suggestion of Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, her personal physician.

"Mrs. Harding slept about five hours last night," Dr. Sawyer's statement said this morning. "She is stronger and more cheerful this morning. The complications and other conditions which have been present are unchanged."

Frank Baker, Arrested At Marietta, Will Face Court Here

Frank Baker of Marietta is enroute back to East Liverpool in custody of Constable T. C. Smith to answer a charge of removing a mortgaged automobile from the county.

Baker was arrested by the sheriff in Washington county Tuesday after information against him had been filed by the Liverpool Motor Car company of this city, charging him with removing an automobile upon which they held a mortgage for $251.

He will be given a hearing before P. V. Mackall.

Progressive Club Calls Meeting for Thursday Evening

The Progressive club of East Liverpool will meet in Trades and Labor council hall, Washington street, at 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening to arrange for affiliation with the National Progressive party, Mrs. Agatha R. Ryan, secretary, announced Wednesday.

the national organization for six years.

During the last three years farm values have shrunk more than twenty billion dollars, Taber told the National Grange delegates when the annual convention opened.

The farmer's tax burden has reached a limit, he said.

"Crushing tax burdens lead to the decadence of agriculture and always have been a forerunner of civilization's doom in the nation in which they have been imposed," he declared.

"During 1923 more than 1,100,000 workers left the farms. The cure for this state of affairs will come through adherence to sound business principles and not through legislation."

Cooperative marketing and production were urged by Taber to make farming profitable. He asserted also that farmers of the nation stand for rigid law enforcement, specifically citing the 18th amendment.

William Farnum In Feature Picture At Ceramic Theatre

"The Man Who Fights Alone," at the Ceramic Theatre Wednesday, is unusual in theme and gripping in story. What is more it marks the screen comeback of William Farnum, this time under the Paramount banner. On top of that it has a superb supporting cast headed by lovely Lois Wilson and Edward Horton, both featured. Wallace Worsley directed the production.

"The Man Who Fights Alone" is from the story "The Miracle of Hate." You have all heard a lot about the miracles that have been performed by love, but sometimes the terrific emotional power of hate can do things even more startling.

Farnum has the role of a twofisted engineer who wins the love of a beautiful girl who had also been courted by his best friend. It health makes it necessary for him to form a partnership with his friend who is an honorable man in every respect. As day after day he sees his wife and his friend talking, laughing, enjoying each other's company, suspicion and bitterness creep into his heart until there comes a time when his mind is so warped that he resolves upon a desperate course of action. How his little daughter saves him from the consequences of his own folly and how he is made to see his jealousy is without foundation, form a mighty climax that will send the red blood tingling and coursing thru your veins.

70 Orphans Guests Of Elks' Lodge at Armistice Day Party

Seventy children from the McCulloch Jefferson county home at Yellow Creek were given an automobile ride about the outskirts of the city, attended a matinee at the Strand theatre, did full justice to a chicken dinner, danced and enjoyed themselves thoroughly as the guests of Elks' lodge No. 258, B. P. O. Elks at the lodge's annual Armistice day observance Tuesday.

In automobiles specially provided for the occasion the tots went to Calcutta, back through Thompson park into the East End and to the Elks' club in West Fifth street. Their forces marshaled again following the ride, they went in a body to the theatre and immediately after the performance enjoyed a chicken dinner at the club, served by a committee of Ladies of the Elks.

The hall room of the lodge was turned over to the youthful guests until 9 o'clock when they returned home on special street cars. From 9 o'clock until midnight members of the lodge entertained at a dance. Music was provided by the Demar Miller and Sayre orchestras.

Nations Plan

No governmental overtures in either country stand in the way of such a party.

Another barrier to the calling of a conference has been the continued French occupation of the Ruhr and the thousands of French soldiers necessary to that undertaking are now resting on their arms with nothing to do.

The French have always been the stumbling block in the pathway of a new conference. On at least three occasions since the Washington Conference, Great Britain and the United States have been in accord that the time was ripe for a new conference, but on each occasion French objections have frustrated it.

Two Important Questions. Whether, with the Dawes plan now in operation, the French out of the Ruhr and French finances somewhat stabilized by the new Morgan loan, the French will meet the English-speaking nations half way, remains to be seen.

It was the French attitude at the Washington conference that necessitated a second conference. France refused to consider limitation of land armaments, submarines or aircraft, and threatened to bolt the conference if these subjects were taken up. Under the circumstances there was nothing left to do but to postpone their consideration.

There are two important questions to be settled, however, in the summing up of another conference. There is reason to believe that both are now being discussed in the capitals of the nations concerned. One is the attitude to be taken toward Russia, the other is whether the conference should be held in America or in Europe.

Any consideration of land armaments would have to take Russia into account, for Russia now has the largest standing army in Europe.

Every first-class government in the world has now recognized Russia, save the United States. That presents complications, which officials here were unwilling to discuss today.

War Debt Attitude
Britain favors the second conference being held abroad. America does not look with much favor on this proposal, believing that old world jealousies and rivalries would be much more apt to intrude and mar the work of the conference than if it were held in the tranquil atmosphere of Washington.

Another barrier, that, in the past, has stood in the way of a conference has been the French insistence that the subject of war debts be considered concurrently with any talk of arms limitation. The American government has always opposed this and will continue to oppose it.

With the reparations problem on the way to settlement now, there is reason to believe that the French government will not be so insistent upon debt discussion in conjunction with a new arms conference.

Tories Await Invitation. LONDON, Nov. 12.—England was eagerly waiting today for an American invitation to another disarmament conference.

There is little doubt that such a move by President Coolidge would be welcomed by the Tory government as a ready escape from the proposed Geneva protocol.

Political circles were inclined to interpret the speech of Sir Auckland Geddes yesterday as Great Britain's surrender to the United States of leadership in the world humanitarian movements. It is apparent that Premier Stanley Baldwin is desirous of the closest cooperation with the United States.

The Tories, on whose heavy victory Baldwin was swept back into Premiership, are inclined to oppose the Geneva pact. The Daily Telegraph publishes today an article by Lieutenant Colonel Repington, who has just returned from a tour of Europe, stating his belief that the Geneva agreement is premature, that it would cause discussion and constitute a real danger to peace.

Carrollton Will Dedicate Catholic Church on Sunday

CARROLLTON, O., Nov. 10.—More than a century has passed since Carrollton was named in honor of Charles Carroll of Carrollton, Md., the last surviving signer of the Declaration of Independence, and a Catholic. Sunday, November 16, Carrollton will see the dedication of its first Catholic church.

Dinner will be served at 1 p. m. A reception will be held afternoon and evening.

The church of Our Lady of Mercy, designed by Kraus and Halenkamp, Akron architects, is being erected on an 84-acre tract of land adjoining the Carrollton and New Philadelphia highways. This tract of land was bought as a site for a hospital of a girls' training school.

Catholics of Malvern, Canton, Massillon, Alliance, Akron, New Philadelphia, Dover and other nearby towns will join with Father Anthony Nickel and his congregation in the services. Rev. Nickel, formerly of Holy Cross church, Columbus, established the first Catholic church in Carrollton, Dec. 13, 1923.

An impressive scene was witnessed on July 27, when Father Weigand of Steubenville, together with Fr. Hazel of Massillon and Fr. Mandery of Marges and Fr. Nickel laid the cornerstone.

The speakers, including Judge O'Neil of Akron, Joseph Blake and Frank Zink of Canton, and George O'Brien of Alliance made a great impression upon the 3,000 people who came from far and wide.

Charles G. Norris' Novel, "Bread," on Screen at American

Before becoming a motion picture actor, Hobart Bosworth, who plays an important part in the Metro-Goldwyn picture of Charles G. Norris' novel, "Bread," at the American theatre Wednesday, was noted as a boxer and wrestler. After leaving his home town in Marietta, Ohio, he was in turn sailor, fighter, wrestler, stevedore, longshoreman, cow puncher and actor.

His stage career began in stock in New York. He then became stage director of the California Stock company, after which he was leading man for Mrs. Fiske, Julia Marlowe and others.

He reluctantly accepted a part in a picture. But after he had made a number of one-reel pictures such as "The Courtship of Miles Standish," "The Virginian" and "Evangeline," he became interested in his new profession, to which he has devoted practically all his attention ever since.

Among his best pictures are "The Sea Wolf," "Behold the Door," "The Eternal Three," "Vanity Fair," "The Man Life Passed By" and "In the Palace of the King."

"Bread" is a picturization of Charles G. Norris' famous novel as published by E. P. Dutton and Company. Albert Lewin and Lendore Coffey adapted it to the screen and Victor Schertzinger directed.

Authorities Search For Maude Norris, 16, Reported Missing

East Liverpool police and county probation authorities are searching for Maude Norris, 16-year-old Fourth street girl, a ward of the probation court, who has been missing since last Thursday evening.

Ralph Hebron, Ravine street, is at liberty on $1,000 bail, charged with contributing to the girl's delinquency. The Norris girl and a friend were met last Thursday evening by Hebron and a companion, while they were going to the tabernacle, police say. At the close of the services, the two girls accompanied Hebron and his friend for a walk. The two couples became separated and Hebron told the police that he left the girl at the corner of Sixth street and Broadway about an hour later.

The case was to have been heard before Mayor Brown Tuesday afternoon, but was postponed until a thorough search could be made for the girl. Hebron denies knowledge of her whereabouts. It is thought that she may be in hiding in West Virginia.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Railroad stocks assumed the leadership in the stock market in the early trading today. The feature of the first period was strength and activity of St. Louis, San Francisco, common, which jumped 3 points to a new high at 50, at the opening and sold in large blocks between that price and 48, the demand being due to rumors that the stock is to be placed on a dividend base early next year. Rock Island, Reading, Missouri, Kansas and Texas, Peregrine and New Haven were in good demand while Atchafalpa and New York Central were irregular. Southern Pacific continued its upward movement with an advance to a new high above 105.

Mixed movements characterized the oil stocks as well as the high price industries, which scored the spectacular advances at the close of Tuesday's session. Cast Iron Pipe went through its best previous record and sold at a new high at 130 and General Electric was up about 3 points, but American Can did not reach the high point of yesterday's session and Baldwin and other high-priced leaders lost about one point.

The oils were in good supply and reactions were made in Cuden, Sinclair and other active oils, while American Oil continued its advance to a new high at 27 3/4 and both the Standard Oil and Pan-American sold higher. Another price rise in gasoline, wholesale, emphasized the gradual improvement of the petroleum industry.

Further upward progress was made today by American Sugar and American Woolen which have borne the brunt of heavy selling in recent sessions. American Sugar at 45 1/2 showed a recovery of 3/4 points from the low of two weeks ago and American Woolen at 59 1/2, a recovery of about 8 points.

Continental Can was pushed forward as American Can appeared to have reached its high level for the time being. Continental gained 3 points, at 62; also recording a new high for the year.

Allied Chemical, Foundation company, Savage Arms and other specialty stocks continued the advance which has been in progress for a week or more. Radio corporation made a new high at 33 1/2.

With call money at 2 per cent and public demand for stock unsatisfied the market maintained its activity and sales in the first hour amounted to $25,000 shares.

DOCTOR'S WIFE HIT BY AUTO

Mrs. E. F. Swift Bruised in Main Street Accident.

Mrs. E. F. Swift, wife of Dr. E. F. Swift of Main street, is recovering at her home from injuries sustained when she was struck and knocked to the street Monday evening by an automobile.

As two automobiles approached. After the second machine had passed Mrs. Swift stepped into the street to cross directly in the path of an automobile coming from the opposite direction. Mrs. Swift was unable to reach safety and the driver of the car, a local youth, apparently was unable to stop.

Mrs. Swift was severely bruised and received a number of scalp wounds, but her condition is not regarded by members of the family as serious.

The driver of the automobile was exonerated from blame in connection with the accident.

MOORE FUNERAL SERVICES HERE

The body of W. D. Moore, former local resident, who died Tuesday morning at his home in Cleveland, will arrive in Wellsville Thursday evening, relatives were informed Wednesday.

The body will be taken to the home of a sister-in-law, Mrs. Al. Moore, in Tenth street, where funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, in charge of Rev. F. H. Magill, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Burial will be made in Spring Hill cemetery.

Paul Eckfeld, of this city, a nephew, will accompany the body from Cleveland.

In addition to his wife, deceased is survived by two daughters, Helen and Margaret, a sister, Miss Mazie Moore who lives here, and several nieces and nephews. Helen Moore, who has been residing in Whittier, California, is expected to reach here Saturday at noon.

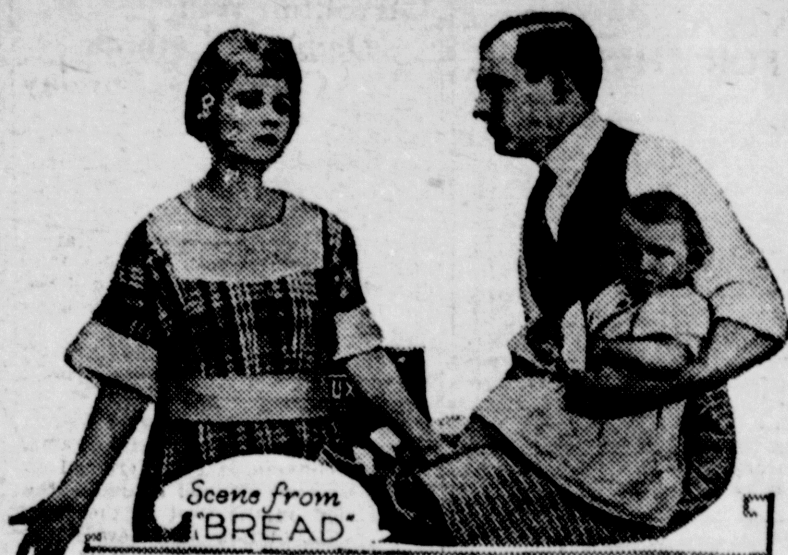

OBSERVE GUEST DAY ON FRIDAY

The annual guests' day meeting of the Wellsville Twentieth Century club will be held on Friday evening in the First Methodist Protestant church, Tenth and Main streets, instead of on Monday, according to announcement.

THOUSANDS of coffee lovers make Golden Sun a breakfast habit. It's mellow, invigorating, delicious. Order a trial tin from your grocer.

by Miss Elsie Berg, president of the organization.

The roll call topic will be, "Good Works of the General Federation of Women's Clubs."

Mrs. W. F. Lones will tell of "Reminiscences of an European Journey." Music and a social hour will follow the program. Members will be accompanied by guests.

RIVAL FOOTBALL TEAMS PLAY TIE

The Wellsville Webster Billiards and the Salineville Nash Motors played to a 6 to 6 tie Tuesday afternoon at Central park before one of the largest football crowds of the season here, the event heading the afternoon program of the local Armistice day observance under auspices of Corporal Dan Duty post, No. 130, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The teams were well matched and a draw was the result. The contest boasted many spectacular performances and a stronger defensive play than has been seen here this season. Both the Websters and the Salineville aggregation were better teams than on the occasion of their first meeting this year.

If the Billiards had an edge at all, it must go to their forward passing to which they can attribute the greater percentage of their advances.

Ladies come to the matinee at the American Theatre Wed., Thur. and Fri., Nov. 12, 13 and 14, and get a loaf of Betsy Ross Bread free.

Announce Birth of Daughter.

HAD GIVEN UP HOPE HE SAYS

But Herbal Remedy, Ka-di-ok, Has Brought Relief to This Sufferer From Rheumatic Pains.

Mr. Jacob Crawford

"I had given up hope of ever getting relief until Ka-di-ok proved to me it's a real, wonderful medicine. I shall keep on taking it at all times."

This was the statement of Mr. Jacob Crawford, 158 Foster street, Mansfield, Ohio, where he has lived for the past year. Prior to taking up employment with the local plant of the Westinghouse Electric company, Mr. Crawford lived in Perryville, Ohio, where he is very well known.

In talking with the Ka-di-ok representative, Mr. Crawford said: "I suffered with aches and pains in my limbs for a long time and I was unable to get any relief until I started taking Ka-di-ok. I want to say it has been a real help to me. I no longer suffer from pains of any kind and I am feeling fine."

It is Mr. Crawford's hope that others who suffer in a similar way may profit by his experience and try this remedy which thousands of people in all walks of life have proclaimed the greatest remedy in the world. Many hopeless cases of various ailments due to disorders of the stomach, kidneys and liver have been given almost instant relief.

Ka-di-ok is especially recommended for rheumatism, indigestion, poor blood, auto-intoxication, gas or bloating after meals, tiredness, loss of weight, inability to sleep and general debility. Try a bottle at once. You have everything to gain.

Ka-di-ok can be obtained in East Liverpool at the Mathew's Cut Rate Medicine store, 129 West 6th street.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

Mr. Jacob Crawford

"I had given up hope of ever getting relief until Kad-i-ok proved to me it's a real, wonderful medicine. I shall keep on taking it at all times." This was the statement of Mr. Jacob Crawford, 158 Foster street, Mansfield, Ohio, where he has lived for the past year. Prior to taking up employment with the local plant of the Westinghouse Electric company, Mr. Crawford lived in Perryville, Ohio, where he is very well known.

In talking with the Kad-i-ok representative, Mr. Crawford said: "I suffered with aches and pains in my limbs for a long time and I was unable to get any relief until I started taking Kad-i-ok. I want to say it has been a real help to me. I no longer suffer from pains of any kind and I am feeling fine."

It is Mr. Crawford's hope that others who suffer in a similar way may profit by his experience and try this remedy which thousands of people in all walks of life have proclaimed the greatest remedy in the world. Many hopeless cases of various ailments due to disorders of the stomach, kidneys and liver have been given almost instant relief.

Kad-i-ok is especially recommended for rheumatism, indigestion, poor blood, auto-intoxication, gas or bloating after meals, tiredness, loss of weight, inability to sleep and general debility. Try a bottle at once. You have everything to gain.

Kad-i-ok can be obtained in East Liverpool at the Mathew's Cut Rate Medicine Store, 129 West 6th street.

City Loses Able Servant

The resignation of Joseph T. Croxall from membership on the board of health, effective December 1, following approximately seven years' service, is generally regretted, for his ability as an executive and his keen knowledge of the problems of the municipality have proved of inestimable benefit to the community.

Mr. Croxall's resignation, as he says in a letter to Mayor Brown, is prompted by the fact that he desires to be relieved of some of the responsibilities that have drawn heavily upon his time, for in addition to giving close attention to his duties as a member of the health board, he is a Liverpool township trustee and a director of the Chamber of Commerce.

His letter of resignation directs attention to the work of the health board, which, as he says, is one of the most important units of the municipal government, for the vigilance of this organization is the city's bulwark against epidemics. And consequently its recommendation for the eradication of unsanitary conditions, improvement of streets, etc., should be given prompt attention by the city council which necessarily must provide the funds to permit the materialization of a program looking toward the protection of the public health.

It is regrettable that the city council, not only the present body, but some of its predecessors, has not been an enthusiastic co-worker of the health board. In fact, not infrequently in bygone years health board recommendations have been the football of legislators.

Mr. Croxall's retirement means the health board loses an able servant. His place will be hard to fill.

One-Piece Buildings

Houses and more pretentious buildings hereafter may be comparable to union suits. The one-piece building has arrived.

It started with the "poured" structure of concrete, devised by Edison and described by the fancy Greek word "monolith," which signifies "one-stone." That type of structure has not yet made such headway as the inventor expected, but it is gaining, and is sure to become more popular as lumber becomes more scarce and expensive and architects work out more attractive forms of concrete homes.

Now it is the one-piece structure of steel, or of steel and concrete, with the steel parts all welded together and the skeleton surrounded and filled out with concrete in the usual way.

Engineers belonging to the American Welding society say that welding is the coming thing in architecture, and will take the place of riveting. The din of the pneumatic riveter will give way to the roar of the gas torch or the flare of the electric welder. When a job is finished, the skeleton will be literally one great piece of steel, as if shaped on the forge of some superhuman blacksmith. There are said to be big advantages in this process, in time and cost of construction and in the strength of the structure itself.

Now let the engineers provide a fancy word for that. The obvious companion-word of "monolith," which, according to the Greek dictionary, would be "monochalyb," somehow seems a bit lacking in euphonic appeal.

Sanded Skies

American aviators, using the heavens for a laboratory, have learned to make rain almost at will, provided they have clouds to start with. Finding a likely-looking cloud charged with either positive or negative electricity, they spray it with fine sand into which they have put an opposite charge, and the cloud condenses in rain. Often a few hundred pounds of sand will start a big shower, doing many thousand dollars' worth of good.

The aviators can dissipate clouds, too, by a sort of reverse process. In experiments recently near Washington, D. C., two planes using electrified sand were able to "shoot down" a long series of clouds, one after another, and to wipe out cloud banks and drill "wells" through thick clouds. They say they can overcome fog in the same way.

London and Pittsburgh ought to maintain an air service of this kind, and farming states may find it worth while, too.

TODAY

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.)

WALL STREET'S WALPURGIS

Wall Street, following the election, has been indulging in a series of Walpurgis night, only the exciting scenes occurred in broad daylight. On Thursday, with Coolidge's election sure, the stock boom started, and it has gone on increasing day by day. Bulls that have taken their profits have had no effect on the rise. And, they have, Job-like, "cursed their day," and themselves for selling.

BOOM, NOT PANIC

Last Saturday 500,000 shares were sold in 30 minutes, a record for all time. Such selling would mean 5,000,000 shares in a regular five-hour session of the exchange. In Saturday's two-hour session, before noon, 1,338,105 shares were dealt in. And the thing, apparently, is only starting.

Many, unfortunately, will wake up later with a bad financial headache, and many, buying beyond their power to digest, will have to begin all over again. That always happens, in stock booms or land booms. Only the really wise get rich, and stay rich, at anything.

There is one pleasant feature of the extraordinary stock transactions. They are based on a boom not on a panic. Hitherto such a market of violent dealings has never been seen except in time of great panic, with frightened owners throwing their stocks overboard, at any price.

The great rise and boom has been in railroad stocks. This writer having advised readers on the day after election to buy railroad stocks, wisely, feels bound to advise the little man, most earnestly that the quickest road to the poorhouse is stock trading on a margin.

If you can pay half, or even a quarter now, and are absolutely certain of your ability to pay the rest later, go ahead. But gambling in stocks—or anything else—means certain ruin, not sometimes, but always.

All stock market records have been broken in this "Coolidge boom," and, when the dust settles, a few will have more yachts; the majority will have more experience.

It's all part of Providential wisdom. The man with money gone must go to work at something more conservative than watching the ticker.

REBUKING LA FOLLETTE

The "conservative newspaper," a polite euphemism for "corporation owned newspaper," now calls for discipline of La Follette. Half a dozen such newspapers suggest that Senator La Follette be removed from important senate committees on which he is now active.

For his effrontery in saying what he thinks and running for office in a supposedly "free country," he is to be punished by an unfair and cowardly majority.

That program probably will not go through. Mr. Coolidge possesses both common sense and decency. He will remind the senators, if they need reminding, that running for office and speaking your mind is not a crime, at least in the case of a powerful United States senator. Where little people, without friends or power are concerned, our glorious constitution is sometimes a little weak in its fundamental guarantees. But, a man with the state of Wisconsin and 5,000,000 votes behind him will not be "disciplined" in the senate, even to oblige the most servile of corporation lackeys.

GOVERNMENT ECONOMICS

Government economies that are promised—Coolidge and Mellon will make good their promises—will cut down government expenses by $500,000,000 more annually. That will help prosperity to boom, and it proves that the people made a good investment when they secured Mr. Mellon's services. He will get this country out of debt even without collection of our European billions, if his policy is followed out.

The Wahabis, now ruling Mecca, holy city of the Mohammedans, are to Islam what the Quakers, or Puritans, were to Christianity. You can't be too pure to suit a Wahabi, and he hates smoking, says it's ungodly.

Therefore, no more smoking in the holy city, and as for drinking alcoholic fluids, that's unthinkable. One hundred thousand narghiles, Turkish pipes with long tubes, have been seized and solemnly burned by the Wahabis. Childish, you may say, but not as bad as burning human beings, or the noblest books of antiquity, because they fail to share your religious views. Christians have done that on a scale that Wahabism never dreamed of.

WHO'S WHO

ALVIN VICTOR DONAHEY.

One of the most startling features of the recent election was the overwhelming victory of Governor "Vic" Donahey in Ohio. In the face of a Republican landslide which carried all other Republican state candidates, President Coolidge and Republican county tickets through to tremendous pluralities, Governor Donahey, running for re-election against ex-Governor Harry L. Davis, carried the state by a plurality expected, in official returns, to run around the 150,000 mark.

Political students of both parties are unanimous in calling the governor "the greatest vote getter the state has ever had."

Donahey's rise from a farm boy to the position of chief executive of his state reads like fiction.

He was born July 7, 1873, on a farm in Tuscarawas county. As named by his parents he is Alvin Victor and he chose the name of Vic for himself.

Donahey received his early training in the Tuscarawas county schools and the Methodist Sunday school. He quit school at the age of 15 and went to work on a farm. When he was 23 he married Miss Edith Sterling, of Dover, O. They have 10 children.

In 1900 Donahey was elected clerk of Goshen township, which includes New Philadelphia. In 1904 he was elected auditor of Tuscarawas county and re-elected in 1908. In 1912 he was elected state auditor and re-elected in 1916.

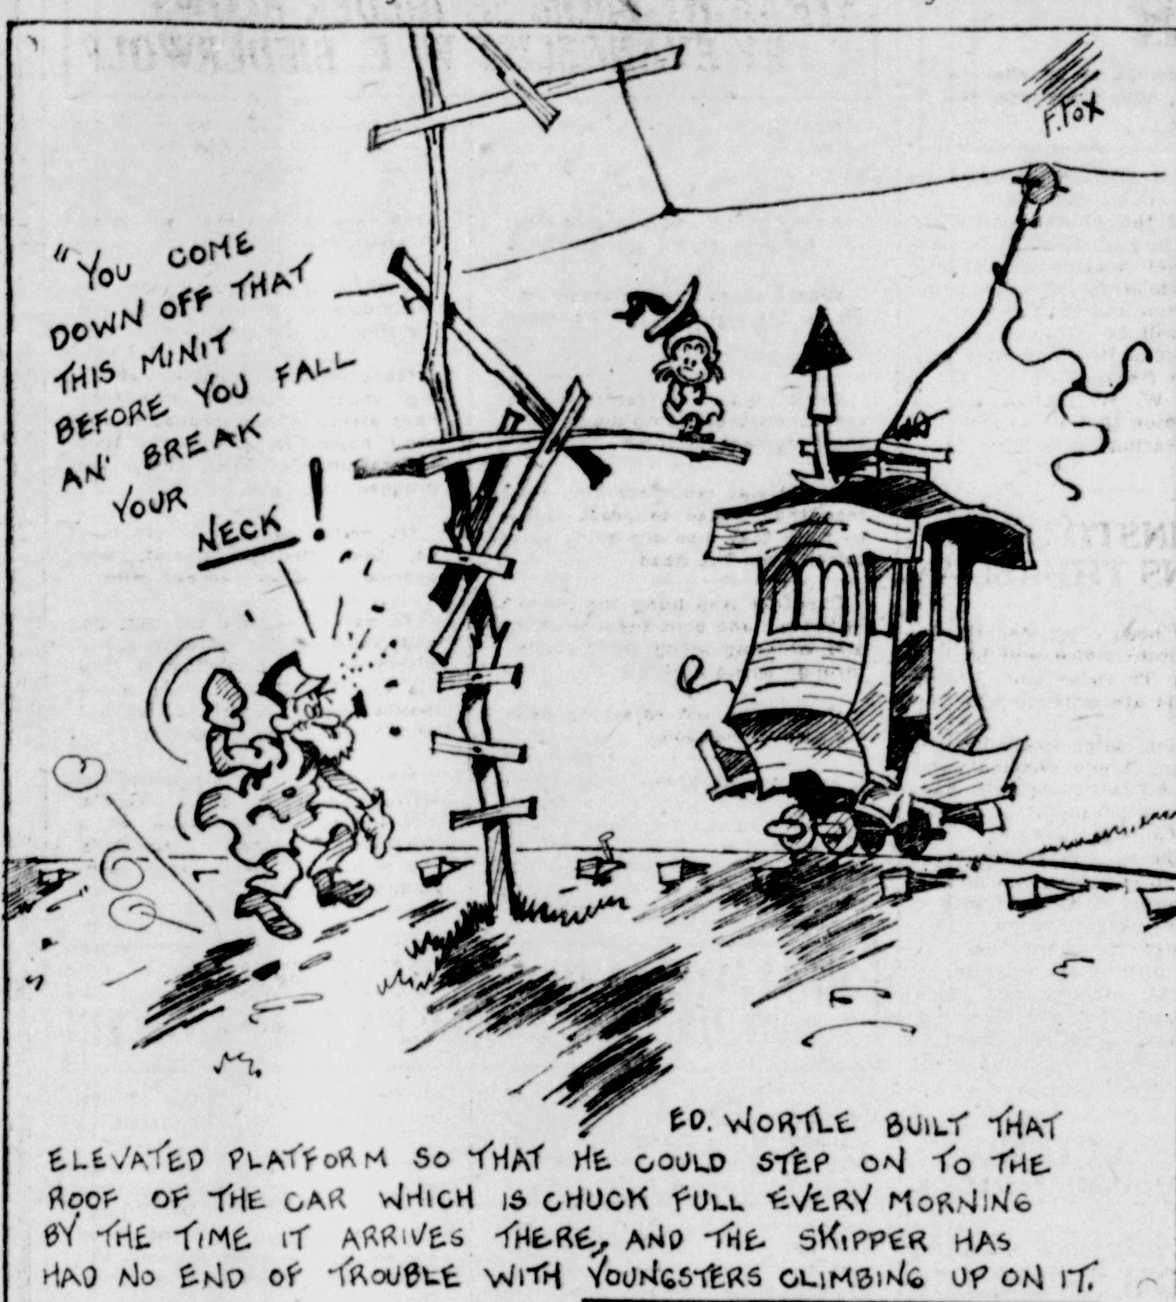

In his first race for governor, in 1920, Donahey was defeated by Harry Davis, of Cleveland, but in 1922 he defeated Carmi Thompson, of Cleveland, for the first office in the state.

Donahey and the state legislature, strongly Republican, were at cross purposes during the session of the general assembly, with the result that the governor set a new record for vetoing bills passed by the legislature, with 76. The senate struck back by refusing to approve many of the administrative appointments. Both houses re-elected over his veto, 14 measures he had disapproved.

Donahey did not have the backing of the Democratic bosses in the recent campaign.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By HARRY R. FLORY.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—Having had the opportunity of watching several exhibition games between the New York Giants and the Chicago White Sox, English sporting critics have reached the almost unanimous conclusion that baseball won't do as an English sport.

Baseball is a jumble of "beauty and ugliness," and altogether monotonous, was the verdict.

"An innings by the dull professional cricketer who ever dawdled through leaden hours has infinite variety compared with the thwackings of a baseball star," declared one writer. "It is never likely to become a national pastime, because it is better to watch than to play."

Only one writer had the audacity to say that "baseball made cricket look anaemic."

The charge of monotony as compared with cricket is hard to understand, except that in cricket the spectator may vary the program by making several trips to handy booths for tea and other liquid refreshments and each time on returning to his place in the stands may be practically certain to see the same player still at bat. A cricket match is almost never decided in one day of play.

"Attahoy," is the American national slogan, some of those who listened to the chatter of the players on the field and the Americans in the bleachers decided. Cricketers, they say, who never hear any other expression of encouragement than "well played, sir," were pained by the levity of both players and spectators.

"Can you imagine Jack Hobbs (England's most famous cricketer) taking up his position at the wicket and being asked by the stumper whether he knew if his mother was out?" was one query. The comments of baseline coaches, it was concluded, were nothing but "outrageous propaganda."

Baseball players' uniforms came in for an excessive amount of kidding. The "flannelled jerseys, plus-three trousers and Steve Donoghue caps" weren't so bad, it was decided, although they did conceal the grace of the perfect athlete, but the allocation of "armor" to catchers and umpires was considered very amusing.

"The catcher is in a coat of mail and the umpire had triple wadding round his breast, proving that umpires must be a valuable race in the U. S. A.," commented one writer.

What struck the spectators most was that the batsman was not protected at all, "although he had the ball thrown at him as violently as possible."

Unprejudiced commentators admitted the pitchers were able to control the ball in an uncanny way, and that the catchers were not far short of miracle men and exceedingly brave.

But what was truly amazing was that the batter was ever able to hit the ball at all.

"He has only a thin skin kind of a club and the pitcher is entitled to throw the ball as fast as he can and with any kind of bodily contortion that may hinder the batsman's view."

"Gee, you gotta hand it out to those boys," wrote one critic, who believed he had absorbed a bit of the atmosphere and the slang of the game. But he spoiled it all by adding that he had learned a real American yell, "Rah, rah, rah, rah, White Sawks, Yab."

Most writers were not quite sure whether or not Babe Ruth was among those present. One even made the suggestion that George Bernard Shaw attended the first game solely to see the famous Home Run King, about whom Shaw is reported once to have made the famous statement: "Those baby is Ruth?"

But the "baby" wasn't there and there were no home runs, for the proximity of the bleachers made a two-base ground rule necessary.

DINNER STORIES

The wife of a rich man, who lacks the business acumen which made her husband wealthy, directed her secretary to balance her bank account and go through the household books.

"Very extraordinary," the secretary reported. "I find that for the last year you have used an average of four dozen cakes of soap a day at home."

The rich woman spoke severely to her servants. She said that she realized they would always graft, but their poverty of imagination appalled her.

"When you want a little easy money," said she, "charge other things on the bill. Paint, brass polish, doorknobs, anything but soap. I'm tired of soap."

Backward Persia now has air passenger service between Baku and Teheran, America, which created the airplane has to crawl around in railroad trains and motor busses.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Gotham now has three tabloid picture newspapers—the Daily News owned by the Chicago Tribune, the Daily Mirror owned by W. R. Hearst and the Daily Graphic owned by Bernard McFadden. Each is patterned after the London Daily Mirror, which made a fortune for Lord Northcliffe.

Three newspapers have started since Munsey began his merging campaign. The Daily Mirror, The Graphic and The Bulletin, a full sized journal. The tabloid newspaper is particularly adaptable to New York. Its success elsewhere has not been marked.

It offers hurrying straphangers a fleeting glance at the news. The greatest sale is among the foreign born on the East Side, who are able to digest the news with the laborious process of reading. The captions are simple and direct.

The picture newspaper has been a boon to photographers. Skilled camera clickers are making as high as $200 a week, a much higher wage than is paid the reporter. They must be daring and risk their lives in many instances to snap the unusual scene.

Some unusual beats have been scored by cameramen who happened to be on the ground. One snapped a wife plunging a knife into her husband's breast. Another snapped the body of a suicide hurtling from the top of a tall building.

Still another was tipped off on a prohibition raid in a cabaret. With the connivance of an employee he had his camera hid behind a curtain. When the officers descended he touched off the flashlight and the excited group was first-paged next morning.

Peculiarly enough the popularity of the tabloid has not cut into the circulation of regular sized newspapers. Buyers take the favorite newspaper, and the tabloid extra. Along Broadway the tabloid idea is popular with chorus girls and the sporting fraternity.

Reginald Vanderbilt, round faced, plink checked and habited in a dazzling striped shirt, stepped into a barber shop frequent. Of all the waiting patrons he needed a barber's ministrations most. I assume this is one of the joys of great wealth. You just don't have to care.

There was a fellow next to me that must have felt silly although he didn't look it. His barber was curling up a long forelock in curling papers and then applying blasts of hot air. There were a few amused smiles, but no doubt a searcher for truth would find he kills wild boars in Africa with his bare hands. One of the most intrepid of Arctic explorers has his hair frizzed.

My barber, by the way, lives five minutes from Coney Island and his leisure hours are spent in surf bathing. His complexion is seared the tan of an autumn leaf. Somehow he gives one the impression of one of the glamorous pirates in the pages of a Defoe or Stevenson. His shoulders are wide and his hair raven black. He suggests swift forays in the dark, hand-to-hand struggles, with parrots shouting! "Pieces of eight," and hoarse-sea dogs singing violent chanteys. Yet he is the mildest mannered of men. He has confided that some day he wants to quit barbering and become an aesthetic dancer. I ever see him clad in a cheese cloth Grecian robe leaping for imaginary butterflies I'm going to bust right out crying. Too many of my illusions have cracked already.

This barber told me a good story—although it may be an old one. Most of those I tell are. But don't stop me if you've heard it. A little girl awakened in the early hours of morning and said: "Tell me a story, mama."

"Hush! dear," said the mother. "Daddy will be home soon and he'll tell us both one."

LABOR BANKS INCREASE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Recently the statement was made in a proposal looking to a settlement of the railroad problem that if the railway employees of the country would save 20 per cent of their wages, in five years' time they could own more than 51 per cent, or a controlling interest, of the railroads of the United States.

That statement forcibly directed attention to labor's potential financial power. It has been stated less specifically in the assertion that if the American working man would only save and invest his savings within a decade he could be one of the dominating financial powers of the world.

It has been demonstrated practically in the startling growth in number and resources of organized labor's banks.

Since the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers established the first of these banks in Cleveland, 23 additional labor banks have been formed, seven are in process of formation, and preliminary organization steps have been taken for 60 more. These labor banks have aggregate resources in excess of $150,000,000 and it is obvious that the amount of business they are doing annually is a real factor in the commercial life of the nation.

Just what all this is leading to nobody pretends to know as yet, but it is a subject that bankers, captains of industry, economists, labor leaders and the rank and file of the working people are considering and discussing with unusual interest. Eventually the politicians and statesmen will probably take cognizance of it.

When the first real union labor bank was started most people were skeptical of its success, saying that labor was undertaking something entirely outside its field and beyond its capabilities. Labor leaders now say they have found that the banking business is neither complex nor abstruse, but is carried on about as any other retail business. For any specialized field of the work they can employ specialized brains, they say, while merely being a banker does not require a man to be a genius any more than it should set him apart as one of earth's anointed.

NOT FIGHTING CAPITAL

One of the first predictions made relative to the new movement in the financial world—aside from the general prophecy that he would come a cropper—was that if labor pooled its resources and organized them in banks it would inevitably use the power thus created or centralized in fighting capital as represented by the employers of labor. In other words, the war between labor and capital, traditionally inevitable and never-ending, would become more bitter and a constantly greater menace to the public.

Persons prone to hasty judgments said that the labor banks would be used to finance strikes and other industrial controversies, and they opined that all manner of evil would grow out of that.

The fundamental error of those who made these predictions was in not knowing or not taking into consideration the fact that a strike is a bad business proposition from a strictly financial standpoint. At best it is highly speculative. Banks do not finance bad business undertakings or those that are essentially gambles. That is, banks that are soundly conducted do not. And when organized labor went into the banking field it had to be doubly sure that its institutions were absolutely sound and conservatively managed. Failure, with resultant losses to stockholders and depositors, would be more widely criticized and more bitterly condemned than the failure of any ordinary bank. Hence, there has been no financing of strikes.

On the contrary, it is claimed that labor's banking ventures have done much already toward reconciling the differences of employer and employee, by bringing about their speedy adjustment with a minimum use of economic force and a minimum economic loss. In the first place they have demonstrated that the interests of capital and labor are identical, rather than essentially antagonistic, and in the second place they tend to teach both groups in industry that, broadly speaking, there is neither need nor excuse for the economic waste resulting from strikes and similar industrial controversies.

EDUCATION SADLY NEEDED

Education along this line has been sadly needed on both sides. In the early days of the organized labor movement labor had to fight for everything it got, and in fighting its first recourse was to economic force—the strike and the boycott. Naturally its leaders were always its best fighters, and frequently its most ruthless fighters. Workers were fighting for the right to organize and its unions were fighting for existence. Capital organized to combat what were termed the aggressions of labor, and the most effective leaders of capital were its best fighters.

Such leadership on both sides would go to almost any lengths to win, and there is quite a bit of that kind of leadership in the industrial world of today, although the rights of unionization and of collective bargaining have been established and are generally recognized.

Where the labor bank cut in to relieve or remedy this situation or condition may be illustrated by a hypothetical case. The trainmen of a certain railroad or railway system may have a complaint that the repair work of the road is being neglected or improperly done, and that they are being required to operate engines and other equipment that are not only inefficient but an actual menace to life and property. They can make that complaint to the superintendent or general manager, but those officials do not own or control the road and are primarily interested in making records for economical operation that will put them in right with the stock owners or controlling interests that almost invariably are centered in banks.

In the old days the employees had no chance of getting their grievances or even a fair statement of them before the bankers. Now, however, one group of railway workers, the engineers, not only have ten or a dozen banks but own a big interest in a great New York bank—their "window on Wall Street," they call it—and their representatives meet daily with the bankers who control the railroad involved in the controversy.

Moreover, the labor banks may have but recently assisted materially in floating, which means selling, the bonds issued by that very road. Doesn't it stand to reason that the grievances of those trainmen will be better presented and more fairly considered in a conference around the board of directors' table of that bank than in the old days in a touch and go meeting of hot-headed union officials and exasperated railroad officials that took place at the seat of war or prospective seat of war?

And isn't it to be expected that as the workers own more and more of the securities of the industries in which they are employed, or through their banking interests learn more and more of the hazards and bonafides of capital, there will be less and less tendency toward economic conflict? Observers answer these questions with an affirmative.

City Loses Able Servant

The resignation of Joseph T. Croxall from membership on the board of health, effective December 1, following approximately seven years' service, is generally regretted, for his ability as an executive and his keen knowledge of the problems of the municipality have proved of inestimable benefit to the community.

Mr. Croxall's resignation, as he says in a letter to Mayor Brown, is prompted by the fact that he desires to be relieved of some of the responsibilities that have drawn heavily upon his time, for in addition to giving close attention to his duties as a member of the health board, he is a Liverpool township trustee and a director of the Chamber of Commerce.

His letter of resignation directs attention to the work of the health board, which, as he says, is one of the most important units of the municipal government, for the vigilance of this organization is the city's bulwark against epidemics. And consequently its recommendation for the eradication of unsanitary conditions, improvement of streets, etc., should be given prompt attention by the city council which necessarily must provide the funds to permit the materialization of a program looking toward the protection of the public health.

It is regrettable that the city council, not only the present body, but some of its predecessors, has not been an enthusiastic co-worker of the health board. In fact, not infrequently in bygone years health board recommendations have been the football of legislators.

Mr. Croxall's retirement means the health board loses an able servant. His place will be hard to fill.

One-Piece Buildings

Houses and more pretentious buildings hereafter may be comparable to union suits. The one-piece building has arrived.

It started with the "poured" structure of concrete, devised by Edison and described by the fancy Greek word "monolith," which signifies "one-stone." That type of structure has not yet made such headway as the inventor expected, but it is gaining, and is sure to become more popular as lumber becomes more scarce and expensive and architects work out more attractive forms of concrete homes.

Now it is the one-piece structure of steel, or of steel and concrete, with the steel parts all welded together and the skeleton surrounded and filled out with concrete in the usual way.

Engineers belonging to the American Welding society say that welding is the coming thing in architecture, and will take the place of riveting. The din of the pneumatic riveter will give way to the roar of the gas torch or the flare of the electric welder. When a job is finished, the skeleton will be literally one great piece of steel, as if shaped on the forge of some superhuman blacksmith. There are said to be big advantages in this process, in time and cost of construction and in the strength of the structure itself.

Now let the engineers provide a fancy word for that. The obvious companion-word of "monolith," which, according to the Greek dictionary, would be "monochalyb," somehow seems a bit lacking in euphonic appeal.

Sanded Skies

American aviators, using the heavens for a laboratory, have learned to make rain almost at will, provided they have clouds to start with. Finding a likely-looking cloud charged with either positive or negative electricity, they spray it with fine sand into which they have put an opposite charge, and the cloud condenses in rain. Often a few hundred pounds of sand will start a big shower, doing many thousand dollars' worth of good.

The aviators can dissipate clouds, too, by a sort of reverse process. In experiments recently near Washington, D. C., two planes using electrified sand were able to "shoot down" a long series of clouds, one after another, and to wipe out cloud banks and drill "wells" through thick clouds. They say they can overcome fog in the same way.

London and Pittsburgh ought to maintain an air service of this kind, and farming states may find it worth while, too.

WALL STREET'S WALPURGIS

Wall Street, following the election, has been indulging in a series of Walpurgis night, only the exciting scenes occurred in broad daylight. On Thursday, with Coolidge's election sure, the stock boom started, and it has gone on increasing, day by day. Bulls that have taken their profits have had no effect on the rise. And, they have, Job-like, "cursed their day," and themselves for selling.

BOOM, NOT PANIC

Last Saturday 500,000 shares were sold in 30 minutes, a record for all time. Such selling would mean 5,000,000 shares in a regular five-hour session of the exchange. In Saturday's two-hour session, before noon, 1,338,165 shares were dealt in. And the thing, apparently, is only starting.

Ma-y, unfortunately, will wake up later with a bad financial headache, and many, buying beyond their power to digest, will have to begin all over again. That always happens, in stock booms or land booms. Only the really wise get rich, and stay rich, at anything.

There is one pleasant feature of the extraordinary stock transactions. They are based on a boom not on a panic. Hitherto such a market of violent dealings has never been seen except in time of great panic, with frightened owners throwing their stocks overboard, at any price.

The great rise and boom has been in railroad stocks. This writer having advised readers on the day after election to buy railroad stocks, wisely, feels bound to advise the little man, most earnestly that the quickest road to the poorhouse is stock trading on a margin.

If you can pay half, or even a quarter now, and are absolutely certain of your ability to pay the rest later, go ahead. But gambling in stocks, or anything else—means certain ruin, not sometimes, but always.

All stock market records have been broken in this "Coolidge boom," and, when the dust settles, a few will have more yachts; the majority will have more experience.

It's all part of Providential wisdom. The man with money gone must go to work at something more conservative than watching the ticker.

REBUKING LA FOLLETTE

The "conservative newspaper," a polite euphemism for "corporation owned newspaper," now calls for discipline of La Follette. Half a dozen such newspapers suggest that Senator La Follette be removed from important senate committees on which he is now active.

For his effrontery in saying what he thinks and running for office in a supposedly "free country," he is to be punished by an unfair and cowardly majority.

That program probably will not go through. Mr. Coolidge possesses both common sense and decency. He will remind the senators, if they need reminding, that running for office and speaking your mind is not a crime, at least in the case of a powerful United States senator. Where little people, without friends or power are concerned, our glorious constitution is sometimes a little weak in its fundamental guarantees. But, a man with the state of Wisconsin and 5,000,000 votes behind him will not be "disciplined" in the senate, even to oblige the most servile of corporation lackeys.

GOVERNMENT ECONOMICS

Government economies that are promised—Coolidge and Mellon will make good their promises—will cut down government expenses by $500,000,000 more annually. That will help prosperity to boom, and it proves that the people made a good investment when they secured Mr. Mellon's services. He will get this country out of debt even without collection of our European billions, if his policy is followed out.

The Wahabists, now ruling Mecca, holy city of the Mohammedans, are to Islam what the Quakers, or Puritans, were to Christianity. You can't be too pure to suit a Wahabi, and he hates smoking, says it's ungodly.

Therefore, no more smoking in the holy city, and as for drinking alcoholic fluids, that's unthinkable. One hundred thousand narghiles, Turkish pipes with long tubes, have been seized and solemnly burned by the Wahabists. Childish, you may say, but not as bad as burning human beings, or the noblest books of antiquity, because they fail to share your religious views. Christians have done that on a scale that Wahabism never dreamed of.

WHO'S WHO

ALVIN VICTOR DONAHEY.

One of the most startling features of the recent election was the overwhelming victory of Governor "Vic" Donahey in Ohio. In the face of a Republican landslide which carried all other Republican state candidates, President Coolidge and Republican county tickets through to tremendous pluralities, Governor Donahey, running for re-election against ex-Governor Harry L. Davis, carried the state by a plurality expected, in official returns, to run around the 150,000 mark.

Political students of both parties are unanimous in calling the governor "the greatest vote getter the state has ever had."

Donahey's rise from a farm boy to the position of chief executive of his state reads like fiction.

He was born July 7, 1873, on a farm in Tuscarawas county. As named by his parents he is Alvin Victor and he chose the name of Vic for himself.

Donahey received his early training in the Tuscarawas county schools and the Methodist Sunday school. He quit school at the age of 15 and went to work on a farm. When he was 23 he married Miss Edith Sterling, of Dover, O. They have 10 children.

In 1903 Donahey was elected clerk of Goshen township, which includes New Philadelphia. In 1904 he was elected auditor of Tuscarawas county and re-elected in 1906. In 1912 he was elected state auditor and re-elected in 1916.

In his first race for governor, in 1920, Donahey was defeated by Harry Davis, of Cleveland, but in 1922 he defeated Carmi Thompson, of Cleveland, for the first office in the state.

Donahey and the state legislature, strongly Republican, were at cross purposes during the session of the general assembly, with the result that the governor set a new record for vetoing bills passed by the legislature, with 76. The senate struck back by refusing to approve many of the administrative appointments. Both houses re-elected, over his veto, 14 measures he had disapproved.

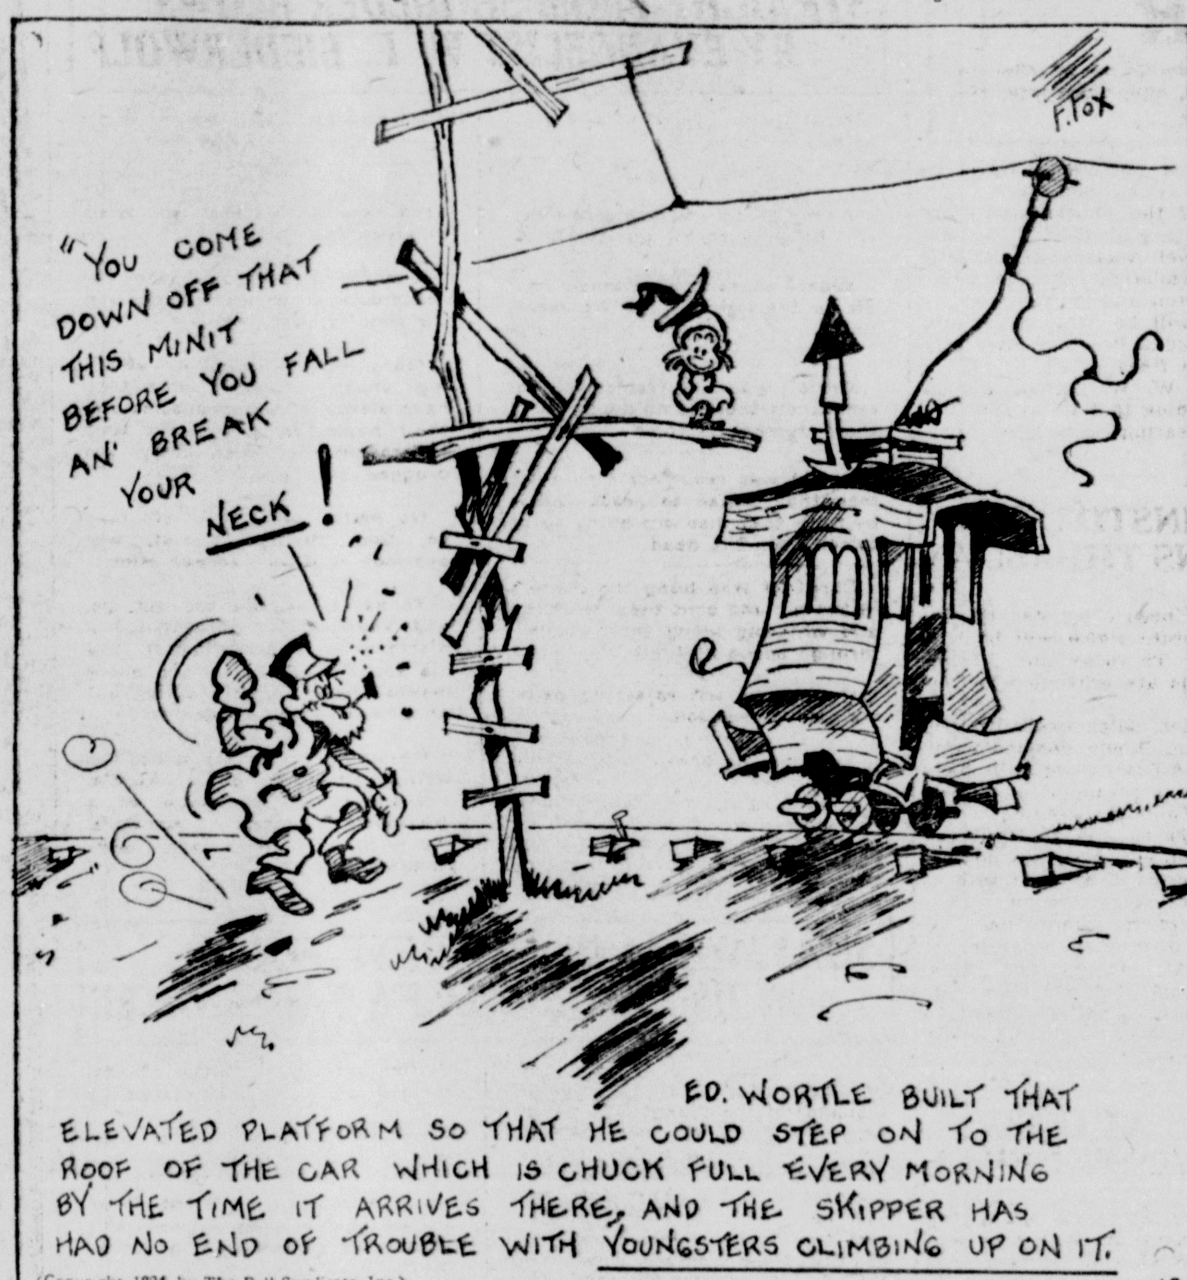

Donahey did not have the backing of the Democratic bosses in the recent campaign.

More history repeating: A few years ago American juncos were throwing a fit about the alleged landing of arms in Mexico by Japanese. Now Japanese juncos are throwing a fit over the alleged landing of arms in China by Americans.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By HARRY R. FLORY.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—Having had the opportunity of watching several exhibition games between the New York Giants and the Chicago White Sox, English sporting critics have reached the almost unanimous conclusion that baseball won't do as an English sport.

Baseball is a jumble of "beauty and ugliness," and altogether monotonous, was the verdict. "An innings by the dullest professional cricketer ever dawdled through leaden hours has infinite variety compared with the twackings of a baseball star," declared one writer. "It is never likely to become a national pastime, because it is better to watch than to play."

Only one writer had the audacity to say that "baseball made cricket look anemic."

The charge of monotony as compared with cricket is hard to understand, except that in cricket the spectator may vary the program by making several trips to handy booths for tea and other liquid refreshments and each time on returning to his place in the stands may be practically certain to see the same player still at bat. A cricket match is almost never decided in one day of play.

"Attaboy," is the American national slogan, some of those who listened to the chatter of the players on the field and the Americans in the bleachers decided. Cricketers, they say, who never hear any other expression of encouragement than "well played, sir," were pained by the levity of both players and spectators.

"Can you imagine Jack Hobbs (England's most famous cricketer) taking up his position at the wicket and being asked by the stumper whether he knew if his mother was out?" was one query. The comments of baseline coaches, it was concluded, were nothing but "outrageous propaganda."

Baseball players' uniforms came in for an excessive amount of kidding. The "flannelled jerseys, plus-three trousers and Steve Donohue caps" weren't so bad, it was decided, although they did conceal the grace of the perfect athletes, but the allocation of "armor" to catchers and umpires was considered very amusing.

"The catcher is in a coat of mail and the umpire had a triple wadding round his breast, proving that umpires must be a valuable race in the U. S. A.," commented one writer.

What struck the spectators most was that the batsman was not protected at all, "although he had the ball thrown at him as violently as possible."

Unprejudiced commentators admitted the pitchers were able to control the ball in an uncanny way, and that the catchers were not far short of miracle men and exceedingly brave.

But what was truly amazing was that the batter was ever able to hit the ball at all.

"He has only a thinish kind of a club and the pitcher is entitled to throw the ball as fast as he can and with any kind of bodily contortion that may hinder the batsman's view."

"Gee, you gotta hand it out to those boys," wrote one critic, who believed he had absorbed a bit of the atmosphere and the slang of the game. But he spoiled it all by adding that he had learned a real American yell, "Rah, rah, rah, rah, White Sawks, Yah."

Most writers were not quite sure whether or not Babe Ruth was among those present. One even made the suggestion that George Bernard Shaw attended the first game solely to see the famous Home Run King, about whom Shaw is reported once to have made the famous statement: "Whose baby is Ruth?"

But the "gibe" wasn't there and there were no home runs, "or the proximity of the bleachers made a two-base ground rule necessary."

DINNER STORIES

The wife of a rich man, who lacks the business acumen which made her husband wealthy, directed her secretary to balance her bank account and go through the household books.

"Very extraordinary," the secretary reported. "I find that for the last year you have used an average of four dozen cakes of soap a day at home."

The rich woman spoke severely to her servants. She said that she realized they would always graft, but their poverty of imagination appalled her.

"When you want a little easy money," said she, "charge other things on the bill. Paint, brass polish, doorknobs, anything but soap. I'm tired of soap."

Backward Persia now has air passenger service between Teheran and Tashkent, America, which created the airplane, said his to crawl around in railroad trains and motor busses.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Gotham now has three tabloid picture newspapers—the Daily News owned by the Chicago Tribune, the Daily Mirror owned by W. R. Hearst and the Daily Graphic owned by Bernard McFadden. Each is patterned after the London Daily Mirror, which made a fortune for Lord Northcliffe.

Three newspapers have started since Munsey began his merging campaign. The Daily Mirror, The Graphic and The Bulletin, a full sized journal. The tabloid newspaper is particularly adaptable to New York. Its success elsewhere has not been marked.

It offers hurrying straphangers a fleeting glance at the news. The greatest sale is among the foreign born on the East Side, who are able to digest the news with the laborious process of reading. The captions are simple and direct.

The picture newspaper has been a boon to photographers. Skilled camera clickers are making as high as $200 a week, a much higher wage than is paid the reporter. They must be daring and risk their lives in many instances to snap the unusual scene.

They can make that complaint to the superintendent or general manager, but those officials do not own or control the road and are primarily interested in making records for economical operation that will put them in right with the owners or controlling interests that almost invariably are centered in banks.

In the old days the employees had no chance of getting their grievances or even a fair statement of them before the bankers. Now, however, one group of railway workers, the engineers, not only have ten or a dozen banks but own a big interest in a great New York bank—their "window on Wall Street," they call it—and their representatives meet daily the bankers who control the railroad involved in the controversy.

Moreover, the labor banks may have but recently assisted materially in floating, which means selling, the bonds issued by that very road. Doesn't it stand to reason that the grievances of those trainmen will be better presented and more fairly considered in a conference around the board of directors' table of that bank than in the old days in a touch and go meeting of hot-headed union officials and exasperated railroad officials that took place at the seat of war or prospective seat of war?

And isn't it to be expected that as the workers own more and more of the securities of the industries in which they are employed, or through their banking interests learn more and more of the hazards and snafus of capital, there will be less and less tendency toward economic conflict? Observers answer these questions with an affirmative.

REPORT FILED BY GRAND JURY

Harold Umenstetter is Indicted for Robbing Auto Store.

Harold Umenstetter, who was arrested here last week in connection with robbing the auto supply store of Paul Gregg, was indicted by the grand jury which submitted its findings to Judge Harold Brennan Tuesday at New Cumberland. He is charged with breaking and entering. The cases against two other local men were not pressed as they are already serving sentences. It was brought out at the investigation that C. L. Medley was joint owner of the place.

Walter Collins and Edward Cranston, both of Newell, who were heavily fined at a hearing before Justice

John A. Mylar, were indicted on charges of selling liquor. Majority of the indictments found by the grand jury of which E. B. Lawrence of Newell was chairman, were for alleged violations of the liquor laws in Weirton and vicinity. Prisoners will be arraigned Thursday before Judge Brennan when trial dates will be fixed. Prosecutor W. W. Ingram announced this morning that he expected to have all hearings completed about Nov. 24.

FARM INSTITUTE OPENS THURSDAY

Plans have been completed for the farmers' institute which will be held at Pughtown Thursday and Friday. Three sessions are scheduled for the final days.

J. V. Hopkins, dairy specialist, and H. G. Strum, home demonstration agent, both of Clarksburg, will have places on the program at the opening session Thursday evening. The latter will discuss "West Virginia's Program of Work." Program dealing with farm topics will be dealt with at the meeting Friday afternoon.

The committee in charge has arranged for a diversified program, including musical numbers and readings to be given both evenings. Arrangements have been perfected to handle large crowds, including many from Beaver county.

MASONS ATTEND IRWIN FUNERAL

Funeral services for W. W. Irwin, former postmaster of Wheeling, and prominent in Masonic circles, was held this afternoon at his home in that city. Rev. J. B. Leyenberger, pastor of the Third Presbyterian church, officiated. Burial was made in Greenwood cemetery. Masons were in attendance from all parts of the state including a large number from Hancock county. Ritualistic services were in charge of Wheeling commandery, No. 1, Knights Templar, in which the deceased held prominent offices.

Love's Sacrifice

Alice was a normal girl, with a normal girl's longing for a home, children, happiness. She was glad, therefore, when her dearest friend, Lorraine, won a good man and settled down to a happy married life. The shock came to Alice later when she discovered herself deeply, passionately, in love with her friend's handsome husband—and that he was as passionately in love with her. Out of this triangle grew one of the most dramatic episodes that true life has to offer. Alice tells everything under the title, "An Old Maid's Story"—in the December True Story Magazine. STRAIGHT-FROM-SHOULDER BLOWS BY EVANGELIST W. E. BIEDERWOLF

Most of the so-called scientific objections to the Resurrection are based on unbelief.

Admit God and impossibility will have to throw up its hands.

Where does Unitarianism get off in the light of the Resurrection?

Christ was resurrected to let men know there is no doubt about the judgment to come.

Christ was resurrected to show men that united to Jesus Christ by faith they also are going to be raised from the dead.

Can God who hung the planets in the air and sent them whirling and whizzing along their courses through space be limited?

If God can not raise the dead, then He is not God.

The empty grave on Sunday morning will utterly confound, confuse and confute all infidels this side of hell.

If Christ did not rise from the dead how can one know He is the way, the truth and the life? If Christ did not rise from the dead how do I know His blood cleanses from all sin?

Everything depends upon the resurrection. If Christ did not die then is our faith vain.

Many infidels and those affecting much bravado while they have plenty of red corpuscles and their health is good want time for repentance when they are dragged over a coffin.

No matter what your sin may be, God, through Christ, will overlook it if you accept Him.

To say that Jesus did not die, and knowing it, permitted His disciples to believe, preach and die for the faith in the event makes Christ not only a liar, but an unprincipled monster.

People may live for a lie, but they won't die for one. The disciples died for the belief of a resurrected Christ. Therefore, He must have died and been raised again.

SHAVINGS AND SAWDUST FOUND IN DR. BIEDERWOLF'S TABERNACLE

James Heaton, Jr., oldest son of "Sunny Jim" Heaton, campaign manager of the evangelistic party, who sustained a fractured leg about seven weeks ago, just a few days after his father arrived here to build the tabernacle, has just been relieved of the plaster cast that in the interim was placed about the member. Now, with the aid of a cane, he can walk and is expected to resume his school work this week. This news, coming to Mr. Heaton, just as he returned here on Tuesday from a day spent in New York, gave him unalloyed joy. "I guess James will be happy and a bit careful from now on," was his happy comment.

Caretaker Breaks, of the tabernacle, is ingenious. He has details of his work in the auditorium finely adjusted. Among his most recent appointments, is a small box which he put together and attached to the south side of the structure. Cutting out a small aperture and attaching a nail to the loosened section the mail man by grasping it can push it upwards, thus making space sufficient to drop into the receptacle all mail addressed to him. Along similar lines is a spectacle case which on a rafter athwart his sailor hammock in his sleeping room in which nightly when after retiring he places his glasses once he is tired of reading. Bingo! goes the book or magazine to the floor. And sleep is on.

Preparations are being made by the big choir to hold a social in the tabernacle on next Monday evening, the rest night of the evangelistic party. Committees were appointed by the members on Monday night. A fine program is being prepared for the night's features. In addition there will be refreshments. A committee on cake will function during the remainder of the week, guaranteeing a maximum of Angel and a minimum of Devil's food to complement the bricks of ice cream that will be necessary to restore physical equilibrium after the activities planned. When he went into the store to get this marvelous powder, he was a cripple. Because of the terrible, torturing effects of rheumatism he was crawling about on two canes. Later the same man, Mr. F. B. (name on request) of New York City, wrote the following letter: "It gives me pleasure to inform you that one box of your powder completely cured me in three days of rheumatism, from which I have suffered for some time." The discoverer of this powder is Alessandro Volta, the well-known Italian physicist for whom the electric volt was named. He discovered a scientific combination of certain ingredients which he compounded into a fine powder. This powder, when shaken into the shoes or stockings, is intended to penetrate immediately through the myriad pores in the soles of the feet.

DR. BIEDERWOLF'S SERMON ON 'RESURRECTION'

Dr. W. E. Biederwolf, in his sermon Tuesday evening on "The Resurrection," said:

Text, First Corinthians 15:14, "If Christ be not risen from the dead then your faith is vain."

There are interesting subjects connected with the Christian religion, but there are none more interesting than the Resurrection. There are other important subjects, but hardly any so important as this one, for "If Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain and your faith is vain," and "if in this life only we have hope in Christ we are of all men most miserable," and this Gospel I preach is a fake and it isn't worth a half a halcyon more than Buddhism, or Theosophy, or Unitarianism, or Christian Science, or any other system of ethics as a religion to save your soul and keep it out of hell.

They laid Him in the tomb and they said, "We'll seal it and we'll put a Roman guard about it because He said He would rise, and we'll fix Him and show the world He was a faker." That's what they said and that's what they did. But do you remember about old king Chanute going down to the beach and commanding the tide not to roll in? Well, the Romans did exactly the same thing to expect compared with expecting that Jesus would stay in the grave when He had said that He would rise. For the bars of death could not hold Him.

No wonder the old Devil has trained all the heavy artillery of hell against this great fortress, for when it goes the throne of God must fall, all heaven must capitulate and it's all off with religion, and that would make hell howl with delight.

Now there are three questions I want to ask and answer about the Resurrection.

First, Could God raise Jesus from the dead?

Second, Did God raise Jesus from the dead?

Third, Why did God raise Jesus from the dead?

RED PEPPERS WILL HEAT AWAY PAINS OF RHEUMATISM

Red Pepper Rub takes the "ouch" from sore, stiff, aching joints. It cannot hurt you, and it certainly stops that old rheumatism torture at once.

When you are suffering so you can hardly get around, just try Red Pepper Rub and you will have the quickest relief known. Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers. Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you will feel the tingling heat. In three minutes it warms the sore spot through and through. Pain and soreness are gone.

Ask any good druggist for a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub. Be sure to get the genuine, with the name Rowles on each package.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

Rub on Good Old Musterole.

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

Rub good old Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief.

Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

As effective as the money old mustard plaster, does the work without blister.

Just rub it on with your fingertips. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Have You Ever Thought of This?

The first and most important health precaution is perfect elimination. Constipation not only affects your health, temper and good looks, but is forerunner of sickness and disease.

Remember, the organs of digestion and assimilation must be strengthened, and not weakened by calomel, drastic pills and strong cathartic waters.

First, Could God raise Jesus from the dead?

When Paul preached the resurrection those old Epicurean and Stoic philosophers up in Athens called him a "babbler," and a "setter forth of strange doctrines." But Paul said, "Why should it be thought a thing incredible that God should raise the dead?"

As to Science.

Now I am not going to waste any time with the old and worn-out so-called scientific objections to the Resurrection. Most of them are born out of unbelief anyway.

There was a time when the science of chemistry analyzed the brain and discovered, so they said, that the brain was made out of phosphorus. My what a startling discovery. Phosphorus did everything. Phosphorus painted the Sistine Madonna. Phosphorus composed the "Hallelujah Chorus." Phosphorus wrote Tennyson's "In Memoriam." Phosphorus did everything. And then the wiseacres went on and discovered at last that everything was made out of Phosphorus. Phosphorus was the basis of all material.

It was just about this time that there was an old infidel who always took great delight in trying to argue his old colored neighbor out of his faith. So one morning he said:

"Well, Mose, it's all up with your faith now."

"How do you make that out?" Mose said.

"Well," said the old infidel, "Science has just discovered that everything is made out of Phosphorus, and if all the millions who have died and all the millions who are yet to die are to be given resurrection bodies, as you claim, there won't be enough Phosphorus to go around."

"Oh," said Mose, "dere ain't no difficulty bout dat at all; don't the Bible say that the dead in Christ shall rise first? Dere will be enough phosphorus for them that rises first, and you and de oder fellows like you will have to scratch round for your own phosphorus; dat's what."

Well, I like that simple sort of faith anyway. No, friends, the impossibility of this thing we are not going to argue. Admit God and impossibility will have to throw up its hands.

Can God Be Limited?

Do you expect to limit the God who out of nothing created the heavens and the earth? Do you expect to limit the God who hung the planets upon the air and sent them whirling and whizzing along their courses, crossing the tracks of a thousand other worlds with minutest precision; the God who flashed a ray of light through a rain drop sparkling with His glory and left it half circled on heaven's transparent curtain in all the bewildering colors of the rainbow; the God who made the inanimate animate and brought into being every living thing—the Author of life itself? "Why," said Paul should it be thought a thing incredible that God should raise the dead?

Of course He could raise the dead. And if He couldn't, then He wasn't God and He isn't God and that's all there is to it.

"Well, in the second place, Did God raise Jesus from the dead?" "Well, if Christ did not rise from the dead how are you going to account for the fact that the grave was empty on Sunday morning?"

If all the infidels on this side of hell should go into session for the purpose of overthrowing the Christian faith, I could take the empty grave of Jesus on Sunday morning and hurl it into the midst of their diabolical deliberations and utterly confound and confuse and confute them all. The Empty Grave on Sunday Morning! Say that, and you've got them going. For they all have to admit it. And they do all admit it.

The most bitter opponent does. Even old Schoenkel says, "It is an indisputable fact that in the early morning of the first day of the week following the crucifixion, the grave of Jesus was found empty."

Well, then, if the grave was empty and there was no resurrection, either his friends or his foes took the body away.

Of course, his enemies didn't take it away; for if they had, they would have produced it as the most effectual way of shutting the mouths of the Disciples who were preaching everywhere that God had raised Him from the dead.

Let us look, then, at some of the theories the infidels advance to get rid of the Resurrection. There are three of them.

1. Some of the infidels and critics of the Resurrection say the Disciples stole the body and then deliberately tried to deceive the world. That's the bluff the Jews tried to get away with. "They gave large money to the soldiers, saying, 'Say ye His disciples came by night and stole Him away while we slept.'"

But that's a fool argument. These disciples laid down their lives for this thing and no man would die for what he knew was a lie. Men will die for error, but not for what they know is a lie. Men lay down their lives for what they believe. Even old Strauss says, "This must be acknowledged; that the apostles firmly believed that Jesus had risen."

Come again, Mr. Infidel.

II. Well, some of them say, He never died. He was just in a swoon. The odor of the spices and the cool air of the tomb revived Him and He came back and got up and left the tomb.

Four Arguments.

But there are four arguments that knock this old swoon theory into a cocked hat.

It makes Jesus out an unprincipled monster. The disciples thought He had died, but He knew He hadn't. And yet this thing that furnished them the ground of their hopes, this thing they depended upon to convert the world, this thing for which they laid down their lives, He knew was a lie, and yet He never told them. You can't put anything over on Jesus like that. You must admit He was decent, if nothing else.

Come again, Mr. Infidel.

Was Not Brainstorm.

III. Well, some of them say the disciples had a brainstorm. They were hallucinated. They thought they saw Him, but they never did. This is the famous Vision Theory. The Hallucination Theory is a better name for it. Old Renan and Strauss are the biggest guns back of this theory.

Well, when you're talking about absurdity, you've got to go some to beat that. It's the limit. I can beat it to a frazzle in a dozen different ways.

1. If it was only a vision, how did it happen that He appeared to the disciples at the same instant and 500 saw Him on one occasion. Who ever heard of this many people having the same vision at the same time? These old infidels deny one miracle and want to substitute 500 miracles in its place. The theory's foolish. Hallucination: nothing! The theory's a joke. The trouble is with the fellow who got it up. He had something worse than hallucination of the brain. And yet you'll find a lot of little cap and gown professors in our universities today who in their inordinate desire to get rid of the supernatural will pump that stuff into their students as the brilliant conclusion of their own self-estimated colossal and stupendous intellect.

Talk about being progressive. They're nothing but theological cravens, crawling back to Phylarchy and Celibacy and other old destructive critics of ten centuries ago. There's nothing to it. Jesus did rise from the dead. Mrs. Eddy says He didn't die, but was alive in the tomb demonstrating the truth of Christian Science.

I suppose that's what she's doing now. But she's not getting there quite as fast as He did. Some of her followers said she'd rise, but you know what Billy Sunday said he would do if she did.

THIRD, WELL, IF GOD COULD RAISE HIM AND IF GOD DID RAISE

Health and Vitality For Women

Health and Vitality can be yours without narcotics or drugs. Keeping well is largely a matter of keeping at bay those dread ailments peculiar to women as evidenced by headaches, nervousness, dragging-down, pain, backache and irritability. For fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been overcoming such conditions and restoring sick and ailing women to health. It surely pays every suffering woman to try it.

HIM, WHY DID GOD RAISE HIM? For four reasons.

1. He did it to make good the word of His blessed Son and to establish once for all and beyond all doubt the truth of His glorious divinity. I read in Romans, 1:4, that Christ was "declared to be the Son of God with power by the resurrection from the dead."

He asked the Jews why they were stoning Him and they said, "Because you being a man, claim to be God, and you're a blasphemer." Well, He did claim it and if He was in His right mind it was either so or it was the roughest blasphemy. And Jesus said He would prove it by His resurrection and God had to raise Him to make good His word and so prove Him to be what He claimed He was. Where does Unfairness get off in the light of the Resurrection? To perdition with the idea that Jesus Christ was only a good man.

2. He did it to furnish every believer the God-given assurance that He is justified in Christ Jesus. It says in Romans 4:25, "That Jesus was raised for our justification."

You know Jesus said He came to "offer His life as ransom for many." (Matt. 20:28); that He would die to make atonement, and He did. But if God hadn't raised Him from the dead, we never would have known that the atonement was accepted, and so, "He was raised for our justification." And it doesn't make any difference how much you have sinned in the past, God will count you righteous for Christ's sake if you want Him to do it, there's no way to escape the damnation of hell if you turn your back on Jesus Christ.

3. He did it to let men know that there isn't any doubt about the judgment to come. Paul said, "God hath appointed a day in which He will judge the world in righteousness by Jesus Christ whereof He hath given assurance unto all men in that He hath raised Him from the dead."

You know Jesus said the hour was coming when the dead would hear His voice and rise, "they that had done good unto the resurrection of life and they that had done evil unto the resurrection of judgment." And they laughed and called Him a fool and God put His own seal on the claim by raising Him from the dead. There's nothing more certain in God's universe than that there's a judgment day coming.

Oh, you say you don't care for the judgment! No! But you won't be in it two minutes until you'll change your mind so quick it will make your head swim.

4. He did it so that every one united to Jesus Christ by faith may know that they also are going to be raised from the dead. Do you remember what Paul said about the resurrection? He said, "Christ the first fruits; afterwards they that are Christ's at His coming."

"If Christ be not risen," Paul says, "our preaching is in vain and your faith is vain also," and "of all men we are most miserable."

Depend on Faith. You know the Devil gives you a pretty good run for your faith sometimes, doesn't he. You go and stand by the open grave and see the basket lowered down, and something says to you, "Will you ever see this loved

Rub the Spine

If you believe the spine is the seat of most of your physical ills and more people are thinking so every day, just give it a gentle massage every night with Joint-Ease and watch the helpful results. Many people are getting it daily from Jesse D. Holloway and other good pharmacists.

one again?" And your heart seems to say, "No," and every thing around about you seems to say "No." And then you think of the words of Paul, "If ye believe that Jesus died and rose again, even those that sleep in Him will be brought with Him when He comes," and you brush away your tears and you hear a voice whispering in your ear, saying, "I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet will he live and whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die," and you thank God and take hope.

Friends, everything depends on the Resurrection. If Christ did not rise from the dead how do I know He is the Way, the Truth and the Life? How do I know that the blood of Jesus Christ cleanses me from all sin? How do I know that He has gone to prepare a place for me and that He will come again and receive me unto Himself? How do I know that death has lost its sting and the grave has lost its victory? How do I know that the Spirit of Him who raised Jesus from the dead will also quicken my mortal body? How do I know that when He shall appear I shall be like Him? How do I know that the sufferings of this present world are not worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed in me? How do I know that the promises of this Book are worth any more than the ink it took to write them with or the paper it took to write them on?

I don't know. There is no way to know, if Christ did not rise from the dead!

Christ Did Rise.

But thank God He did rise. They sealed His tomb but it couldn't hold Him. He lay there cold and dead in the grave. All earth had given up hope, but all heaven knew better. I think Gabriel must have said to the celestial choir, "Hold your breath a minute now, for you'll need it," and as the minute of the world's mightiest miracle ticked off the breath of God swept through the sleeping clay and like a flash of light His glorious Son was on His feet again, while heaven's angelic choir rose tier upon tier and row upon row and shouted, "Hallelujah! Hallelujah! Hallelujah! Christ is risen; The Son of God is alive! Glory to Jesus!"

"Up from the grave He rose, With a mighty triumph o'er His foes, He arose a victor from the dark domain, And He lives with his saints to reign."

He arose! He arose! Hallelujah, Christ arose. He's up there now at the right hand of God pleading his atoning death for you and me. Don't you feel like waving Him a Chautauqua salute, and saying, "Hurry, Jesus, and come back again." For when He comes again even those also who are asleep in Him will be brought with Him, and what a day that will be!

I've been living for Him now for thirty years, in my faltering and stumbling way, but I am walking with my face toward Heaven where I shall one day see Him and I want you to

MOYER- SAUBER WEDDING SOLEMNIZED TUESDAY IN TEMPLE AT CLEVELAND

Former East Liverpool Merchant Weds Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Moyer—Spend Honeymoon in East.

A pretty wedding was solemnized Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the study of Dr. Silver's temple, Euclid avenue and 105th street, Cleveland, when Miss Zella Adele Moyer became the bride of Samuel Sauber of Cleveland, formerly of East Liverpool. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Moyer of Highland Place Colony, Mr. Moyer being a prominent merchant of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Moyer and Attorney and Mrs. Kline of Cleveland attended the young couple. The bride was given in an imported assemblé costume of cranberry red bengaline and suede cloth, trimmed with gray fox fur. She wore a corsage of sweetheart roses. The bridegroom, who was formerly at business here, has been located in Cleveland for the past year.

Immediately following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served in the Hollenden hotel for the members of the bridal party only. Mr. and Mrs. Sauber left Tuesday evening for a honeymoon in New York City, Atlantic City, Philadelphia and Reading, Pa. After December 1, they will be at home to friends in Highland Place Colony.

MOYER- SAUBER WEDDING SOLEMNIZED TUESDAY IN TEMPLE AT CLEVELAND

Former East Liverpool Merchant Weds Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Moyer—Spend Honeymoon in East.

A pretty wedding was solemnized Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the study of Dr. Silver's temple, Euclid avenue and 105th street, Cleveland, when Miss Zella Adele Moyer became the bride of Samuel Sauber of Cleveland, formerly of East Liverpool. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Moyer of Highland Place Colony. Mr. Moyer being a prominent merchant of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Moyer and Attorney and Mrs. Kline of Cleveland attended the young couple. The bride was gowned in an imported assemblé costume of cranberry red bengaline and suede cloth, trimmed with gray fox fur. She wore a corsage of sweetheart roses. The bridegroom, who was formerly a business here, has been located in Cleveland for the past year.

Immediately following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served in the Hollenden hotel for the members of the bridal party only. Mr. and Mrs. Sauber left Tuesday evening for a honeymoon in New York City, Atlantic City, Philadelphia and Reading, Pa. After December 1, they will be at home to friends at Highland Place Colony.

Judith of Blue Lake Ranch

By JACKSON GREGORY.

At any rate, the Blue Lake stock had not been driven off. The bawling of the big herds told him that before he saw the countless tossing horns. Then, dropping down into Pocket valley from above he found his own string of horses feeding quietly. Beyond, the cattle. At first he thought that the animals had been left to their own devices. He saw no rider anywhere. Hurrying on, he shouted loudly. After he had called repeatedly, there floated to him from somewhere down on the lower flat an answering yell. And presently Carson himself came riding to meet him.

Carson's face was smeared with blood; one bruised, battered, discolored eye was swelling shut, but in his uninjured eye there was triumphant gladness.

"We got the sons-o-guns on the run, Bud," he announced from afar. "Killed their pesky fires out before they got a good start, crippled a couple of 'em, counting Benny, the cook, in on the deal, chased their deputy sheriff off with a flea in his ear, an' set tight, holding our own."

"Where'd you get the eye, Carson?" demanded Lee.

Carson grinned broadly, an evil grin of a distorted, battered face.

"You want to take a good look at ol' Poker Face," he chuckled. "He won't cheat no more games of crib for a coon's age. I jus' nacherally beat him all to h—l, Bud."

"Where are the rest of the men?" Lee asked. "Watching the fires an' seeing no more don't get started."

Then Lee told him of Judith. Carson's good eye opened wide with interest. Carson's bruised lips sought to form for a whistle which managed to give them the air of a maidenly pout.

"He had the nerve!" he muttered. "Trevors had the nerve! But, we ought to make a little call on that gent."

Then, seeing Lee's face, Carson realized that anything he might have to remark on this score was superfluous. Lee had already thought of that.

They roped a couple of the wandering horses, improvised hackamores from the rope cut in two, and went to meet Judith. Carson snatched eagerly at her hand and squeezed it and looked inexpressible things from his one useful eye. He gave his saddled horse to her, watched her and Lee ride on to the ranch, and sent Tommy to the old cabin for another rope, while he rounded up some more horses in a narrow canyon for Burkitt and Hampton.

"You d—n fool," he said, growling to Hampton, "look what you've done."

"Of course I'm a d—d fool," replied Hampton, by now his old cheerful self. "I've apologized to Judith and Lee and Burkitt. I apologize to you. I'll tell you confidentially that I'm a sucker and a Come-on-Charlie. I haven't got the brains of a jack-rabbit."

Carson went away grumbling. But for the first time he felt a vague respect for Pollock Hampton.

"He'll be a real man, some day," thought Carson, "if the fool-killer don't pick him off first."

"You may come and see me this evening," Judith told Bud Lee as he left her to Marcella's arms. "I'll be eating and sleeping and taking baths until then. Thank you for the bacon—and the water—and—"

She smiled at him from Marcella's excited embrace. But Lee, the blood tingling through him, left her.

"Before I come to you, Judith girl," he whispered to himself as he went, "I'll have to have a little talk with Bayne Trevors."

CHAPTER XVII.

Lee and Old Man Carson Ride Together.

Bud Lee, riding alone toward the Western Lumber camp, turned in his saddle to glance back as he heard hoof-beats behind him. It was Carson, and the old cattleman was riding hard. Lee frowned. Then for an instant a smile softened his stern eyes.

"Good little old Carson," he muttered. Carson came to his side, saying merely in his dry voice:

"Mind if I come along, Bud? You an' me have rid into one thing an' another more'n just once."

"This is my fight," said Lee coolly. "Who said it wasn't?" demanded the other querulously. "Only you ain't got any call to be a hawg, Bud. Besides, I got a right to see if there's a fair break, ain't I? Say, look at them cow brutes back yonder! Don't it beat all how silage, when you use it right, shapes 'em up?"

Few enough words were said as the miles were flung behind them; few were needed. A swift glance showed Carson that Lee carried a revolver in his shirt; his own gun rode plainly in evidence in front of his hip. What little conversation rose between them was of ranch matters. They spoke of success now with confidence. These two foremen alone could see the money in late winter and early spring from their cattle and horses to carry the Blue Lake venture over the rapids. Then there were the other resources of the diversified undertaking, the hogs, the prize stock, the olives, poultry, dairy products. And soon or late Western Lumber would pay the price for the timber tract, soon, if they saw that they had to pay it or lose the forests which they had so long counted upon. Lumber values were mounting every day.

Neither man, when it chanced that Bayne Trevors' name was casually mentioned, suggested: "Why not go to the law?" For to them it was very clear that, once in the courts, the man who had played safe would laugh at them. Against Judith's oath that he had done nothing of the kind, coupled with his carefully established perjured alibi and the lying testimony of the physician who had visited Judith in the cave. This man and that might be rounded up, Shorty and Benny and Poker Face, and if any of them talked—which perhaps none of them would—at most they would say that they had no orders from anybody but Quinlan. And where was Quinlan, who stood as a buckler between Trevors and prosecution? And what buckler in all the world can ever stand between one man and another?

At any rate, the Blue Lake stock had not been driven off. The bawling of the big herds told him that before he saw the countless tossing horns. Then, dropping down into Pocket valley from above he found his own string of horses feeding quietly. Beyond, the cattle. At first he thought that the animals had been left to their own devices. He saw no rider anywhere. Hurrying on, he shouted loudly. After he had called repeatedly, there floated to him from somewhere down on the lower flat an answering yell. And presently Carson himself came riding to meet him.

Carson's face was smeared with blood; one bruised, battered, discolored eye was swelling shut, but in his uninjured eye there was triumphant gladness.

"We got the sons-o-guns on the run, Bud," he announced from afar. "Killed their pesky fires out before they got a good start, crippled a couple of 'em, counting Benny, the cook, in on the deal, chased their deputy sheriff off with a flea in his ear, an' set tight, holding our own."

"Where'd you get the eye, Carson?" demanded Lee.

Carson grinned broadly, an evil grin of a distorted, battered face.

"You want to take a good look at ol' Poker Face," he chuckled. "He won't cheat no more games of crib for a coon's age. I jus' nacherally beat him all to h—l, Bud."

"Where are the rest of the men?" Lee asked.

"Watching the fires an' seeing no more don't get started."

Then Lee told him of Judith. Carson's good eye opened wide with interest. Carson's bruised lips sought to form for a whistle which managed to give them the air of a maidenly pout.

"He had the nerve!" he muttered. "Trevors had the nerve! But, we ought to make a little call on that gent."

Then, seeing Lee's face, Carson realized that anything he might have to remark on this score was superfluous. Lee had already thought of that.

They roped a couple of the wandering horses, improvised hackamores from the rope cut in two, and went to meet Judith. Carson snatched eagerly at her hand and squeezed it and looked inexpressible things from his one useful eye. He gave his saddled horse to her, watched her and Lee ride on to the ranch, and sent Tommy to the old cabin for another rope, while he rounded up some more horses in a narrow canyon for Burkitt and Hampton.

"You d—n fool," he said, growlingly to Hampton, "look what you've done."

"Of course I'm a d—n fool," replied Hampton, by now his old cheerful self. "I've apologized to Judith and Lee and Burkitt. I apologize to you. I'll tell you confidentially that I'm a sucker and a come-on-Charlie. I haven't got the brains of a jack-rabbit."

Carson went away grumbling. But for the first time he felt a vague respect for Pollock Hampton.

"He'll be a real man, some day," thought Carson, "if the fool-killer don't pick him off first."

"You may come and see me this evening," Judith told Bud Lee as he left her to Marcia's arms. "I'll be eating and sleeping and taking baths until then. Thank you for the bacon—and the water—and—"

She smiled at him from Marcia's excited embrace. But Lee, the blood tingling through him, left her.

"Before I come to you, Judith girl," he whispered to himself as he went, "I'll have to have a little talk with Bayne Trevors."

Bell Telephone Survey Reveals Northeast Ohio As New Ruhr

Columbiana County in Industrial Region Destined to Continue its Rapid Growth, Year's Study Indicates.

The Northwestern Industrial Region of Ohio, embracing Columbiana and eleven other counties seems due to continue its rapid growth along the same channels as at present, with manufacturing as the predominating influence, according to the conclusions drawn from an economic survey just completed by the Ohio Bell Telephone company after more than a year of study.

Excerpts from the report of this survey just obtained by Frank Swaney, the company's commercial manager, here, lists East Liverpool and vicinity as a promising location for future blast furnaces and rolling mills. The survey, which is most exhaustive in its scope, is one which is undertaken at regular intervals by the telephone company to supply the basis of its plans to meet the expansion problems of the future.

"Including ten counties in the eastern part of the state north of the glacial boundary, and two counties along the Ohio river to the west, here is one region in which there can be no doubt as to the proper classification," the Ohio Bell survey report states.

CREAM WILL CLEAR A STUFFED-UP HEAD

If your nostrils are clogged and your head is stuffed because of nasty catarrh or a cold, apply a little pure, antiseptic cream into your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage, soothing and healing swollen, inflamed membranes and you get instant relief.

Try this. Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Your stuffed nostrils open right up; your head is clear; no more yawning or snoring. Count fifty. All the stiffness, tightness, struggling for breath is gone. You feel fine.

Why They Parted

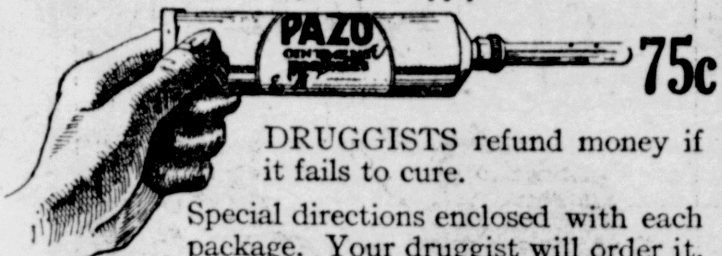

I was down with pain in my right side which at times almost crazed me. Most of all the doctors said operation. But what I want to tell you is the pain disappeared with the first dose of your medicine and I never see any since. May's Wonderful Remedy has the right name—gas, sour stomach and dyspepsia have left, too." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Jesse H. Hays and druggists everywhere.

Bringing Back the Fair Skin and Bright Eyes of Youth

Cosmetics and creams are helpful perhaps to women who like to "beat the enemy" of age, but as a matter of fact only cover up—never really hide the defects of complexion. The skin is the outward sign of the healthfulness of the body, and the eyes tell the story of inward trouble. The right way for a woman to be beautiful is to have a clear skin, bright eyes and the health that makes her so magnetic. To retain these she must not disregard the calls of her body for help. A clear skin means the perfect working of the digestive and eliminative organs—the kidneys, liver and bowels. To secure the perfect regulation of these beauty makers the wise man takes World's Tonic. Nature has provided herbs to help keep the body in order. Combine them into the right kind of a tonic, and good health is easily recovered. With it comes beauty. World's Tonic cleanses, enriches the blood, tones the muscles, and keeps the digestion in order. It is sold at $1.00 a bottle by Carnahan's, 114 East Sixth street, East End, and C. N. Brannon's, Wells-ville, Drug Store and all other good druggists.

Number of Women in British Parliament Reduced to Three

The British parliament now has only three women members, all of them seasoned campaigners. A half dozen Labor and Liberal women members of the House of Commons lost out in the sweeping conservative victory. The remaining trio are: Mrs. Hilton Phillips (left, above), former actress; the Duchess of Atholl (right, above) and the American-born Lady Nancy Astor, seen here with four of her six children.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

A Good Sign Perhaps.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: For almost one year I have been going with a young man in the early twenties. We have averaged one date a week, but on that evening he always suggested going some place, at least nearly always. Of late, however, he seems perfectly contented to stay at home. He is just as attentive as ever, but his actions in this respect are gradually ruining our friendship as far as I am concerned, as I can't help feeling rather slighted. I am almost positive it is not financial difficulties, and if it were it would make no difference to me, as I am not a gold digger. I know he goes with other girls and I go with other fellows. I also know that weeks he has not come over to see me and stayed at home he has also taken another girl out for a good time. This is what hurts. It is not because he is ashamed of me, for I know he is not. In fact, he always seems to be very proud of me. Would you feel hurt over this? Of course, I could simply tell him not to call any more, but I would miss his company and only be hurting myself. I am very sensitive and at times get peevish over trifles. At the time they don't seem trifles, but after a while I can see that they are, and for that reason I would like to know what you think about this. I feel as though he were just making a fool out of me.

L. C.

I don't believe he is. I have a hunch that his idea is to find out what it would be like to spend many evenings quietly at home with you, as his wife. If you are wise, and really care for him, you will prove to him that it would be very pleasant indeed. Of course, if you were married to him you wouldn't expect to go out for a good time every evening. In fact, it is probable that the majority of the evenings would be spent at home, alone with each other. No man would want a wife who was restless, sulky or discontented if she were not "on the go" all the time.

Quite Proper.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: For six months I have been going with a young man seven years my senior and we have been wonderful pals. I accompanied him, his aunt and uncle one Sunday morning to the home of an aunt living out of town and spent the day there, returning in the evening. Now she has asked my friend to bring me out to spend the week-end over Thanksgiving with them. Do you think it proper to go with him to stay that long? Mother fully approves of my friendship with him and his relatives do not object to my being among their acquaintances. Do you think there should be a chaperon during the trip, as it will only involve about four hours?

BETTY B.

It would be entirely proper for you to accept the invitation, and a chaperon will not be necessary under the circumstances.

Deceived Him About Her Age.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a widow, 36 years old, and have accepted an engagement ring from a man of 27. We think a great deal of each other, but I always have told him I was the same age as he because I do not look over that age. Now the time has come to marry him, and I can't tell him the truth about my age because I know it would mean a break-up and I can't think of giving him up. I have two children. What would you do in my case?

B. D.

I think you should tell your fiancé your real age. He has a right to know it, and if he cares enough for you to want to marry you I don't believe the revelation will make any difference to him. Many couples have been happy with even a greater disparity in their ages. You made a serious mistake when you deceived him as to your age.

He Talks About Other Girl.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl 19 years of age and I am going with a young man of 22. I love him dearly and I used to think he loved me too, but there is another girl with whom he goes out some times. This makes me very blue. I try to get him not to go with her for I am true to him and never go with any other young men. It seems as if he likes to aggravate me by talking of her when he is with me. Please tell me what I can do to make him overcome this?

BLUE EYES.

It is not courteous of the young man to talk to you of the other girl. Since he does, however, do not let him know that what he says disturbs you. Probably he does not realize he is being rude. To try to keep him from going with the other girl would be most unwise, because you have no claim on him since you are not betrothed. It would be better if you had other friends too. You could be just as true to him even if you did not go with him exclusively.

Correct Time for "Loving."

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am just a young girl starting to keep company with boys. How long should a girl go with a fellow before she permits "loving"? Some think it out of the question before one is engaged, but there are very few who do not permit it almost in the beginning. Should it be absolutely forbidden before the time of engagement? Some fellows think it an offense if they are not permitted to carry on in such a manner. Do these fellows do it just to find out what type of girl they are keeping company with?

J. V. M.

It is not correct for a girl to permit a man to kiss and make love to her until they are betrothed. Many a girl has suffered humiliation and heartache because she gave away her kisses to some one who soon dropped her and made sport of her to others.

Bread For Stamina

AN army marches on its stomach, said Napoleon. So does the human race progress on bread. Emergencies of physical or mental labor, illness and the like, call for the same stamina in private life as is required of the military. All other things being equal, the man, woman, or child whose diet contains an ample quantity of BETSY ROSS Bread will come through these testing periods the stronger.

BETSY ROSS Bread provides the nourishment the body needs in the form the body can most readily assimilate. The energy, the proteins, iron, calcium, phosphates, and other mineral salts are all found in abundance in BETSY ROSS Bread. Serve more of it and in more ways.

But, remember there are many grades of bread and not all as high as BETSY ROSS. So, when you order, don't say "bread"—say BETSY ROSS.

"Iron and steel products and rubber are the chief articles of manufacture, but there is also a wide variety of other things. About 55 per cent of the state's manufactured articles are concentrated in this region. Three of the seven first-class cities of the state are found in this Northeastern Industrial Region, all of which are of national importance as industrial centers.

Mining is Secondary. "Mining is only a secondary industry in the district. A few scattered coal mines are found in Columbiana, Stark and Mahoning counties, but the deposits are of little value, and are not developed on a large scale.

"East Liverpool turns out the largest amount of clay products of any city in the country. In this vicinity the type of farming is different from that in any other part of the state. The value of the hay is almost as great as the combined value of corn and wheat, while the fruit crop is of almost as much importance as the hay. Live stock, chiefly dairy cattle, and their products, are very important and on many farms constitute the largest item of income.

"This region seems due to continue its rapid growth and along the same channels with manufacturing the predominating influence."

In 1920 Ohio's population was 5,593,394. The telephone company makes the following Ohio predictions for the next three census years: 1930, 6,722,000; 1940, 7,800,000; 1950, 8,960,000.

A part of the Ohio Bell Telephone Company's proposed $60,000,000 expansion program in the next five years is based on the accuracy of these predictions.

"Kiki," Sensational Success by Belasco, Comes Here Dec. 9

The announcement that "Kiki," (pronounced Kicky) the sensational success by David Belasco is coming to the Ceramic theatre, December 9, has put theatregoers on the tip toe of expectation. Radiant with its triumphant record of 600 nights at Mr. Belasco's own theatre, New York, "Kiki," should prove to be the most important theatrical event of the season. Mr. Belasco says that there is nothing the public wants so much to-day as new heroines. Audiences to-day, he claims, are more analytical. They seek logic back of the emotions. Stage heroines must be mentally and emotionally fascinating, possessing all the charming ways they have ever had, with an added sense of humor and responsibility.

Critics agree that in the character of "Kiki" he has embodied all the graces of Maupassant, Zola and Eugene Sue.

Some think it out of the question before one is engaged, but there are very few who do not permit it almost in the beginning. Should it be absolutely forbidden before the time of engagement? Some fellows think it an offense if they are not permitted to carry on in such a manner. Do these fellows do it just to find out what type of girl they are keeping company with?

J. V. M.

It is not correct for a girl to permit a man to kiss and make love to her until they are betrothed. Many a girl has suffered humiliation and heartache because she gave away her kisses to some one who soon dropped her and made sport of her to others.

Bread For Stamina

AN army marches on its stomach, said Napoleon. So does the human race progress on bread. Emergencies of physical or mental labor, illness and the like, call for the same stamina in private life as is required of the military. All other things being equal, the man, woman, or child whose diet contains an ample quantity of BETSY ROSS Bread will come through these testing periods the stronger.

BETSY ROSS Bread provides the nourishment the body needs in the form the body can most readily assimilate. The energy, the proteins, iron, calcium, phosphates, and other mineral salts are all found in abundance in BETSY ROSS. Serve more of it and in more ways.

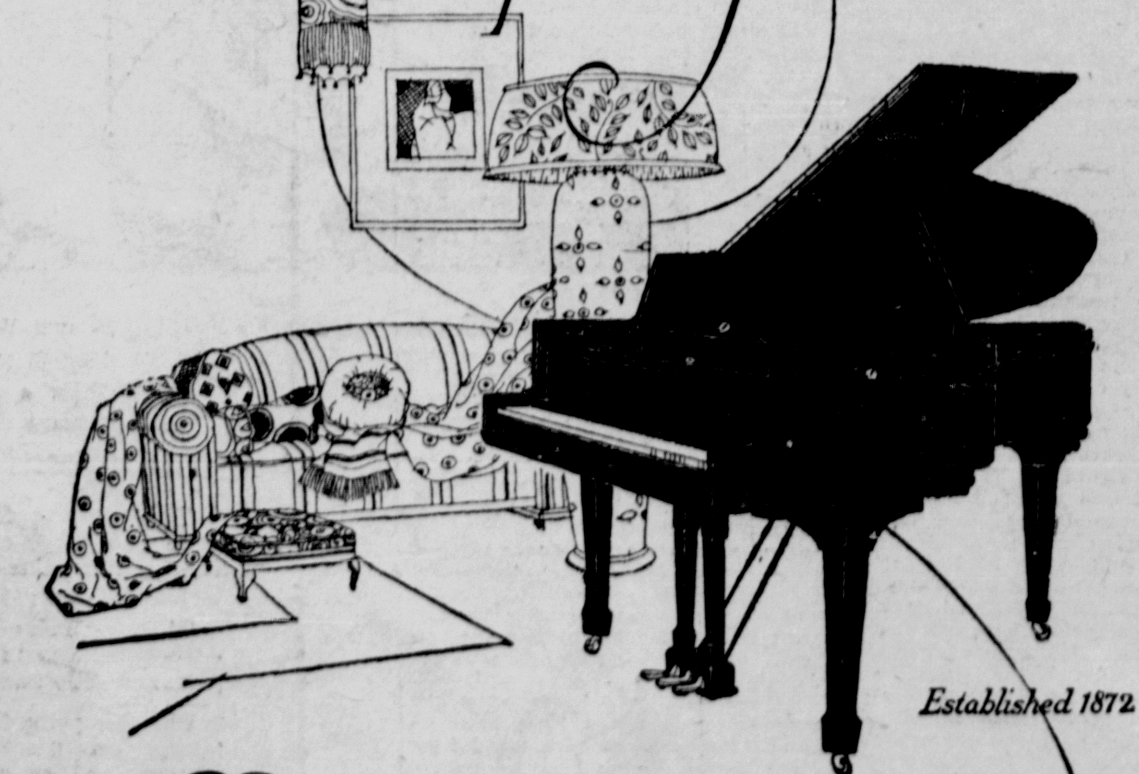

But, remember there are many grades of bread and not all as high as BETSY ROSS. So, when you order, don't say "bread"—say BETSY ROSS.

SOHMER Cupid Grand

WITH all the charm of diminutive size, the Cupid Grand possesses in astonishing volume, the full glowing richness of tone which characterizes all Sohmer Pianos. It is the tonal quality of this little Grand that gives it a proud place among Sohmer achievements and makes it a beautiful and worthy exponent of Sohmer traditions. To see—play—hear the "Cupid" is to appreciate qualities difficult to describe. A demonstration will explain why in New York City, now the music center of the world, there are more Sohmer Pianos in use than any other artistic make.

LADY EXPERT COMING TO HELP RUPTURED WOMEN

Demonstrates Rice Method Free to All

A lady expert representing William S. Rice, Adams, N. Y., inventor of the famous Rice (Non-Surgical) Method for Rupture will be at Travelers Hotel, E. Liverpool, O., Thursday Nov. 13, also at the Imperial Hotel, Steubenville, O., from Friday noon, Nov. 14, until Saturday evening, Nov. 15, to demonstrate a new special corset attachment that holds any rupture no matter how large, even if the abdomen is very fleshy, it holds any rupture with ease, comfort and security.

Every woman who has been compelled to wear an ordinary truss or abdominal support knows the pinching, cutting and chafing caused by narrow bands. The weight of the abdomen or pressure necessary in holding the rupture must be carried by the band around the back, and the pressure is sometimes very great, causing untold suffering. The special broad supporting corset back distributes the pressure so as to do away with all cutting and chafing.

There are thousands of women who are in perfect misery because they cannot find anything that will hold their rupture and the abdomen at the same time. The appliances usually worn are hot, bulky, chafing and irritating. But this wonderful Combined Corset Back Support is light, flexible, durable and cool and fits the figure like a glove. It gives you a sense of absolute comfort and protection while at the same time greatly improving abdominal outlines.

Trusses in common use are not adapted to women and often do great harm. Women therefore, suffer more and are in greater danger from rupture than men, and all women, who have ruptures or who wear an abdominal support of any kind should not fail to call and see this wonderful Combined Corset Back Support. No description or illustration can fully convey the remarkable utility of this splendid Support. It must be seen; it must be put on to convince any woman that it was designed for her.

This lady expert takes a large woman just as she is, all out of shape and unsightly and by this remarkable Corset Support gives her a natural, neat, trim figure.

She will also give full instructions on how to handle and care for any rupture, large or small. She will show how to hold any kind of rupture from the simple groin and femoral to the large and difficult Navel and after Operation Ruptures, with out chafing or squeezing, also how to wear the corset correctly.

Don't let this great opportunity get away from you. Don't continue to suffer the burden of rupture and truss wearing when it is so entirely unnecessary. Your call on this Lady Expert is sure to prove one of the best things you ever did. She will be there only one day, then your opportunity will be gone. The fitting and demonstration are free. It don't cost you a penny to learn all about the Rice Method and the wonderful opportunity for help it offers in your case. After demonstration you can purchase the Outfit required if you wish.

Call any time from 9 to 12 a. m., 2 to 5 p. m., or 7 to 9 evenings. Just ask at the hotel desk for the Rice Representative and she will do the rest.

Place in a pan of hot water and bake half an hour in a moderate oven until firm to the touch. Do not let the water boil during the baking. Turn out of the molds and serve surrounded by the creamed spinach.

Dried Bean Soup — One and one-half cups dried beans, one-quarter teaspoon soda, one teaspoon salt, a little pepper, one teaspoon sugar, one cup milk, two tablespoons butter, one teaspoon minced onion. Wash and pick over beans. Cover with cold water and let stand several hours or over night, depending on the age of the beans. Drain and put into kettle with about two quarts of cold water and the soda. Bring to the boiling point and let boil three or four minutes. Pour off water. Do not throw this water into the sink. Wash beans under running water and return to kettle. Add minced onion. Pour over about two quarts of boiling water and cook slowly until tender, from three to four hours. Add water as necessary. Rub through sieve. Add salt, pepper, sugar, milk and butter and reheat. More salt may be needed in this recipe.

Orange Bavarian Cream — One-half cup orange juice, one-half lemon, one-half cup sugar, two eggs, one-eighth teaspoon salt, one teaspoon granulated gelatin, four teaspoons cold water. Grate rind and squeeze juice from lemon. Combine orange juice, lemon, sugar, salt and yolks of eggs. Cook, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Add gelatin soaked in water. Beat whites of eggs until stiff and dry. Beat in orange mixture. Set bowl in a pan of ice water and beat until mixture is thick and stiff enough to hold its shape. Turn into a mold and set on ice until needed.

SUGGESTIONS

Kerosene is good for a number of things. A little put in water when washing windows, cleans quickly leaving them clean and bright. A few drops in starch keeps the iron from sticking. A couple of tablespoons in your washer whitens the clothes. A little in warm water is excellent for washing woodwork, with or without soap. And we all know about cleaning the bathtub with it.

Answers to Questions By FREDERICK J. HASKIN.

Q. What are the names of the battleships that the British government is building?—A. L. J.

A. The new British ships Rodney and Nelson are 35,000 tons each and are to be completed in 1925 or 1926 and will necessitate the scrapping of Thunder, King George V, Ajax and Centurion as provided by the agreement reached at the Limitation of Arms Conference. The total tonnage to be maintained by the British Empire will be 558,950 tons.

Q. When was the largest year's production of cotton in the United States?—A. J. R.

A. The cotton crop of 1925 was the largest ever produced in the United States. It amounted to 16,134,930 bales. The world crop for that year was also the largest recorded, amounting to 28,687,000 bales.

Q. What horse won the Kentucky Derby in 1924 and what one in 1923?—H. C. N.

A. Black Gold won the Kentucky derby in May 1924. He paid $5.50 to win with a purse of $51,000. Zev won the Kentucky derby on May 19, 1923 and won $53,600 for the race.

Q. What is quartz used for?—M. L.

A. The common variety of crystallized quartz is employed in the arts as an abrasive, principally in the manufacture of sandpaper. It is also crushed and used for polishing marble and as a filler for wood. Quartz sands are of importance in the manufacture of glass, refractory brick, mortar, cements, etc.

Q. I have a crimson rambler growing in a dish. It has bloomed. When should it be set out doors?—H. G. H.

A. The Department of Agriculture suggests that you plant your rambler rose out of doors now; just before freezing weather, cover it up, the top and all. In the spring after the last frost remove the earth from the top.

Q. Are weather forecasts sent out daily?—S. D. F.

A. Within two hours after the morning observations have been taken the forecasts are telegraphed from the forecast centers to about 1,600 principal distributing points. These forecasts reach nearly 90,000 addresses daily and are available to more than 5,500,000 telephone subscribers within an hour of the time of issue.

Q. What player is considered the best first baseman in the National league?—G. J. P.

A. It is a matter of opinion as to who would be considered the best first baseman in the National league. According to John McGraw's selection, Kelly is the best first baseman. Q. To whom should I write concerning an estate in England? J. P.

A. You should write to the High Court of Judicature, The Embankment, London, England.

Q. What is the cause of the cracking and sparks flying from a wood fire grate? J. B.

A. It is the moisture in wood that expands and causes the cracking. The sparks flying from a wood fire are caused by the ignition of carbon.

Q. Does the Department of Agriculture believe that shallow or deep plowing is better? T. R. F.

A. The results from the investigations conducted by the department of the effects of different depths of plowing upon crop yields lead to the conclusion that the best practice seems to be to do a good clean-cut job of plowing to a depth of from four to eight inches when the soil is in proper condition and the work can be done to the best advantage, taking into consideration the most economical distribution of labor throughout the year.

Q. Can you give a recipe to repair zylonite spectacle frames? A. R. W.

A. The Bureau of Standards says a very simple and effective way to repair zylonite (celluloid) spectacle frames is to apply a drop of glacial acetic acid to the broken ends; then in a few minutes press the ends together gently and lay the frame aside for an hour or two. The acid partly dissolves the zylonite and makes it very "tacky" so that it will stick firmly to other pieces of the material. When the acid evaporates, the zylonite hardens again and the joint, if properly made, should be as strong as if there had not been a break. Glacial acetic acid has a very penetrating and irritating odor. It may blister the skin if allowed to get on it. The odor will cause annoyance; there will be no bad after-effects unless the vapors are breathed for too long a time, which is not likely to happen. Vinegar is quite dilute acetic acid. The glacial acid is therefore not poisonous, though troublesome.

Q. What caused Anne Rutledge's death? P. J. J.

A. Brain fever caused the death of Abraham Lincoln's first fiancée.

Q. What country can now send us the largest number of emigrants? M. F. B.

A. According to the new Immigration quota 51,227 German immigrants are allowed to enter the United States annually. This is the largest number of immigrants allowed to enter the United States annually from any foreign country.

Q. How many kinds of trees are there in the United States? M. A. S.

A. The Forest Service says that there are approximately 1,125 different species of trees in the United States.

Q. What is meant by a baseball pitcher's change of pace? H. C. M.

A. Change of pace of a pitcher means change of speed of balls pitched.

Q. Will you send me the name of the animal whose scientific name is Dicrostonyx Nelsoni? H. A. C.

A. The animal to which you refer is the pied or white lemming, which is brown in summer and turns white in winter. There are several races, Dicrostonyx Nelsoni being the one inhabiting northwestern Alaska. The white lemming is found also in northern Europe and Asia.

Q. How many pension checks are returned to the Pension Office each month on account of the death of the pensioner? T. McG.

A. This number varies, but in September 1924, 3,200 pension checks were returned on account of the death of the pensioners.

Q. Will a qualified rural mail carrier be appointed anywhere a vacancy occurs, or will he have to wait for one in his own community? C. S. M.

A. The Post-Office Department says it is necessary for a qualified rural carrier to wait for a vacancy at his home postoffice, the appointment being restricted to residents of the community where the vacancy exists.

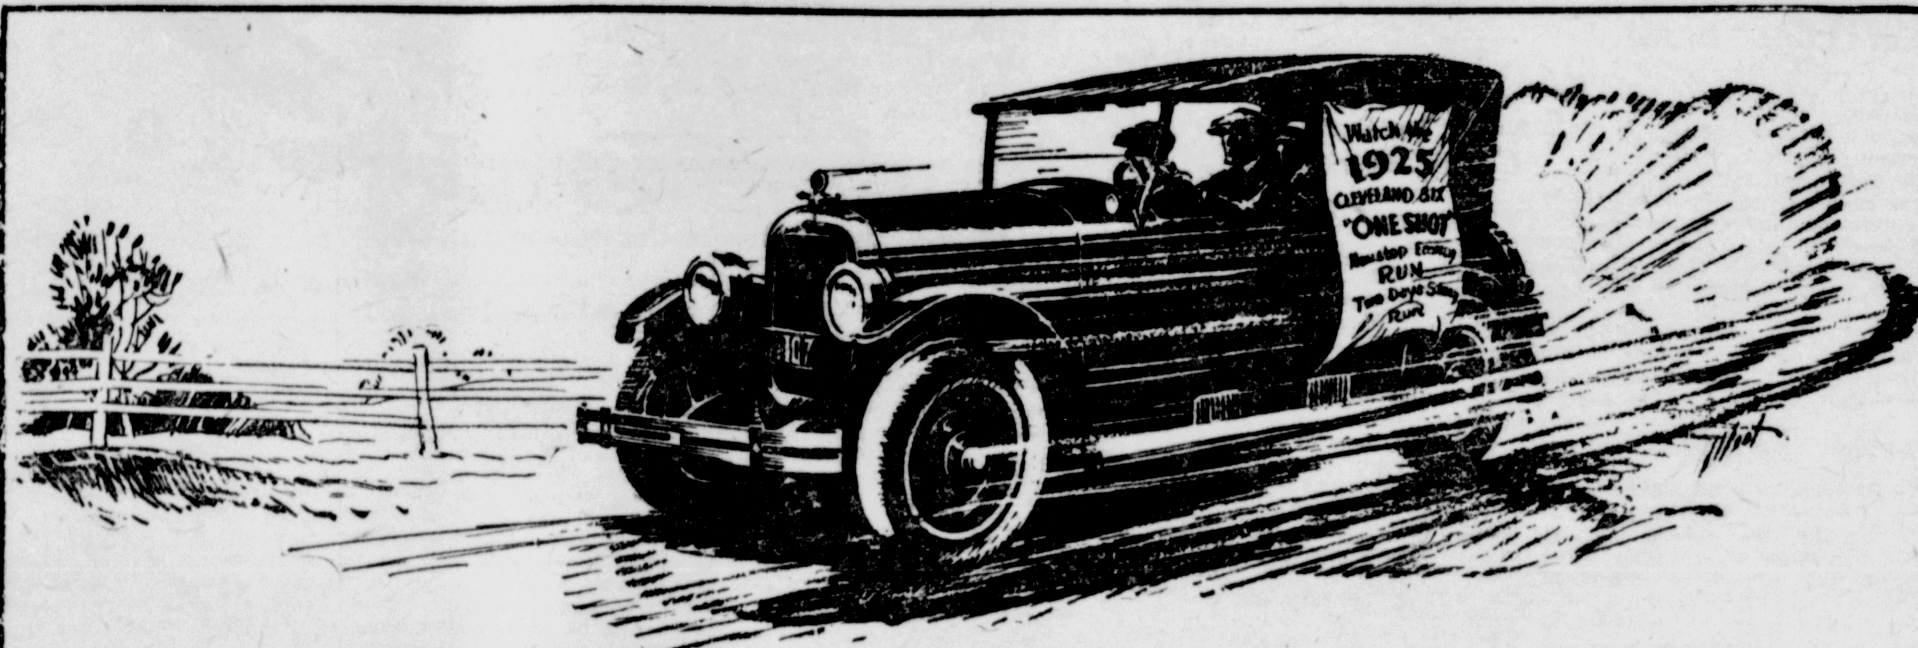

Q. What sort of pine needles should be used in making pillows and when should they be gathered? C. E. D.

A. The Forest Service says that pine needles are not generally used in making pillows. While the pillows are called "pine pillows," the needles are generally those of the balsam fir, or spruce—either red, white, or black spruce. No special time of the year specified for gathering these needles, since they are evergreens.

Q. Over how many miles of railroad is the telegraph used for train orders? G. L. G.

A. On January 1, 1923, the Interstate Commerce Commission reported that telegraph was used for transmitting train orders on 129,162 miles of road and telephone on 128,320 miles giving a total of 246,262 miles of road.

Every lady attending the matinee at the American Theatre Wed., Thur. and Fri., Nov. 12, 13 and 14, will receive a loaf of Betsy Ross Bread free.

2236.1 Miles in 48 Hours!

A Startling Nation-Wide Demonstration of Motor Car Stamina, Speed and Economy

Here is an amazing exhibition of motor car stamina, speed and economy—the most magnificent ever given the American public.

For 48 continuous hours, scores of Cleveland Sixes roared over the highways of America—

—participating simultaneously in a National Non-Stop Economy Run—

—demonstrating clearly and conclusively that the 1925 Cleveland Six is destined to go into history as one of the epoch making cars!

The winner went 2236.1 miles at an average speed of 46.5 m. p. h., averaging 28.3 miles to the gallon.

The eight leading entries covered an average of 2117.3 miles in 48 hours at an average speed of 44.1 m. p. h. and averaged 25.5 miles to the gallon.

And all 86 participating cars showed a grand average mileage of 1565 for the 48 hours; a grand average speed of 32.6 m. p. h. and a grand average economy of 21.4 miles per gallon.

There have been non-stop runs before—but never one like this. Never one so comprehensive in its scope—so free from any suspicion of "stunt" performance—so full of meaty facts.

All entries were standard 1925 Cleveland Sixes—exactly the car you see on the street.

Professional racing drivers were barred. Salesmen, executives, mechanics, accountants, newspaper men and even stenographers handled the wheel in various parts of the country.

Every car carried at least one passenger. Every motor ran 48 hours without stopping. Every car was officially observed. Every result was sworn to.

The records were not made on banked and guarded speedways—but in every section of the country over every conceivable sort of road, under every conceivable driving condition.

Here the highways were concrete, level and dry. There the roads ran with rain and clinging mud clutched at the wheels.

Here the going was gravel, loose and treacherous. Here again it was some dusty trail that led uphill and down through six or seven states.

At times the roads were clear and speeds of 50-60-70 miles an hour could be maintained. At others, congested traffic called for sure, swift, certain brakes and a steering gear that responded with split-second speed.

The average man will rarely do two months driving in two days—will rarely want to travel some 2,000 miles at a speed of 46 miles an hour regardless of road or weather.

But the average man DOES want a car that can come through such a racking, grueling grind with flying colors.

And the man who has a Cleveland Six knows that his car will do all that—and more!

He knows that the Mileage Motor gives him an undreamed-of combination of power, endurance, speed and flawless operation—

—that he can safely expect 20 miles to the gallon in normal driving—

—that he can count on long life and inexpensive maintenance—

—and that, no matter what model he chooses, it will have the same fine materials, the same inspired engineering, and the same scrupulous workmanship that made these brilliant results an actuality!

Not How Big— But How Strong

Careful, prudent people consider this point when selecting a bank for their money — thousands have selected the First National because its entire history is a continuous record of sound management and fair dealing.

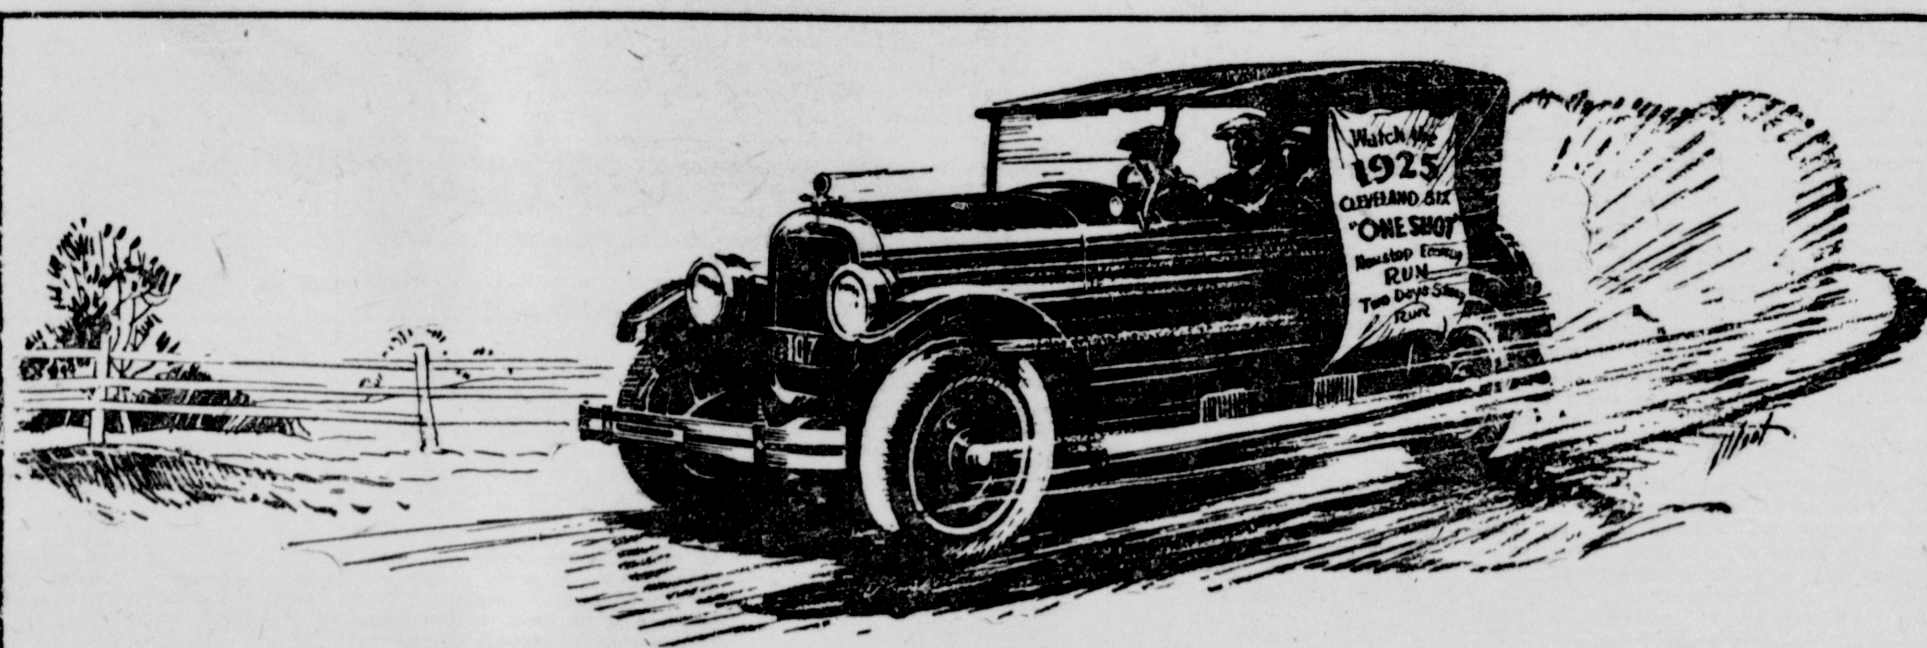

Combined with this protection is its Capital and Surplus of $400,000.00 and re-enforced with membership in the Federal Reserve System and United States Government supervision.

Unquestioned safety is assured.

2236.1 Miles in 48 Hours!

A Startling Nation-Wide Demonstration of Motor Car Stamina, Speed and Economy

Here is an amazing exhibition of motor car stamina, speed and economy—the most magnificent ever given the American public.

For 48 continuous hours, scores of Cleveland Sixes roared over the highways of America—

—participating simultaneously in a National Non-Stop Economy Run—

—demonstrating clearly and conclusively that the 1925 Cleveland Six is destined to go into history as one of the epoch making cars!

The winner went 2236.1 miles at an average speed of 46.5 m. p. h., averaging 28.3 miles to the gallon.

The eight leading entries covered an average of 2117.3 miles in 48 hours at an average speed of 44.1 m. p. h. and averaged 25.5 miles to the gallon.

And all 86 participating cars showed a grand average mileage of 1565 for the 48 hours; a grand average speed of 32.6 m. p. h. and a grand average economy of 21.4 miles per gallon.

There have been non-stop runs before—but never one like this. Never one so comprehensive in its scope—so free from any suspicion of "stunt" performance—so full of meaty facts.

All entries were standard 1925 Cleveland Sixes—exactly the car you see on the street.

Professional racing drivers were barred. Salesmen, executives, mechanics, accountants, newspaper men and even stenographers handled the wheel in various parts of the country.

Every car carried at least one passenger. Every motor ran 48 hours without stopping. Every car was officially observed. Every result was sworn to.

The records were not made on banked and guarded speedways—but in every section of the country over every conceivable sort of road, under every conceivable driving condition.

Here the highways were concrete, level and dry. There the roads ran with rain and clinging mud clutched at the wheels.

Here the going was gravel, loose and treacherous. Here again it was some dusty trail that led uphill and down through six or seven states.

At times the roads were clear and speeds of 50-60-70 miles an hour could be maintained. At others, congested traffic called for sure, swift, certain brakes and a steering gear that responded with split-second speed.

The average man will rarely do two months driving in two days—will rarely want to travel some 2,000 miles at a speed of 46 miles an hour regardless of road or weather.

But the average man DOES want a car that can come through such a racking, gruelling grind with flying colors.

And the man who has a Cleveland Six knows that his car will do all that—and more!

He knows that the Mileage Motor gives him an undreamed-of combination of power, endurance, speed and flawless operation—

—that he can safely expect 20 miles to the gallon in normal driving—

—that he can count on long life and inexpensive maintenance—

—and that, no matter what model he chooses, it will have the same fine materials, the same inspired engineering, and the same scrupulous workmanship that made these brilliant results an actuality!

LISBON

ARMISTICE DAY OBSERVED HERE

Fitting Program Is Carried Out—Parade Is Feature.

Six years ago Lisbon celebrated the signing of the armistice between the allied nations and Germany, and annually since then the day has been fittingly observed. Bombs burst in the air at 11 o'clock Tuesday, bells tolled and whistles shrieked. The din kept on for five minutes, between 11 and 11:05 o'clock during the morning, and then all was quiet until 6:30 o'clock Tuesday night, when another series of bombs were sent into the air, this being the signal for the Mardi Gras parade to start.

Thousands of people lined the streets. There was fun-making galore following the parade, which traveled over a route headed by the Presbyterian band.

During the afternoon hundreds of people traveled into Lisbon to enter farm products and pastry in open competition for prizes offered by Lisbon merchants. Each store had a different exhibit. In the People's State bank was the bread display, while in the Firestone bank lemon pies were spread on long tables.

Store windows contained displays of apples, potatoes, cabbage, and the full line of the products of the farm. Prizes were awarded those who were adjudged winners in all displays.

The evening program in the Lisbon Presbyterian church was arranged by committees representing the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Presbyterian band and the Lisbon Kiwanis club.

At this Armistice Day service Mrs. Harry E. Marsden was at the pipe organ. The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. Peter W. Macaulay. Then followed one minute of silence in memory of the soldier dead.

J. W. Hundertmark rendered a violin solo, while William J. Filson pleased with a vocal solo, singing two numbers.

The principal address of the evening was delivered by Major H. P. MacLane, chaplain of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home at Sandusky, and who was also chaplain attached to the Thirty-seventh division overseas.

Mr. Filson again sang "Rounded Up in Glory" and "Some Day, Some Time." Singing of "America" by the congregation was followed by the benediction by the pastor of the church.

An unusual but pretty decoration scheme was carried out by all Lisbon merchants. In the front of each business house and along the curb was placed an American flag, the staff being held firmly in a hole that had been drilled into the pavement. This form of decoration was uniform throughout the business district.

A patriotic program was followed in all Lisbon schools Tuesday morning, there being no session during the afternoon.

TRACTION TICKET OFFICE ROBBED

For the second time within a week the Y. & O. ticket office at Lisbon was robbed. It was reported to the Lisbon police, the robbery having taken place last Saturday night, about 10 hours after the station was entered and robbed by Pearson Stacy, Dale Brooks and Dana Brooks, of East Liverpool. About $2 in money was all that was taken, the thieves leaving the few pennies found in the cash drawer in the ticket selling booth.

PROBING SERIES OF BARN FIRES

Fires of undetermined origin which have destroyed four barns in the vicinity of North Georgetown, in Knox township, are now being investigated by State Fire Marshal D. J. O'Connor, of Youngstown.

Farmers who have suffered these losses and even their neighbors are unable to explain the cause of the fires, although some of the farmers are of the opinion that the fires have been caused by a "bug" as it has been explained.

An investigation of the fires has been made by Sheriff Gomer Lewis, but so far no one has been charged with setting the barns on fire. The result of the investigations by State Fire Marshal O'Connor have not been revealed.

Don't let constipation make you an invalid—relieve it with Kellogg's Bran

Few people realize how dangerous is constipation until this dread disease tears down their health. Did you know that more than forty serious diseases can be traced to constipation?

Keep your health, or restore it, with Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbed. It brings relief in mild and chronic cases of constipation. It is effective because it is ALL bran. That is why it is recommended so highly by doctors. They know that only ALL bran can bring 100 per cent results. Part bran is, at best, only a halfway measure.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran will bring permanent relief—even in the most chronic case. It is guaranteed to do so. If it fails, your grocer will return your money.

LITTLE CHANCE OF MINE RESUMPTION

According to interest representing the Seger Fuel company, of Latrobe, Pa., little chance exists for the resumption of activity at the West Point mines of this company this year.

While it has been pointed out there has been an increased demand for coal because of the season, the output of some districts is sufficient to meet all current requirements.

The West Point mine has not operated since April last, and it is considered doubtful whether this property will be placed on the active list for many months to come. It has been pointed out that the overhead of this property is too great to continue operations as long as the selling price of coal remains at its present level.

Many miners who were formerly employed in the West Point district have sought employment elsewhere, some going into other fields, while others have left the trade entirely and taken employment in other lines of industry.

PRODUCTS PLANT RENEWS SHIPPING

Following an inactive shipping period the Lisbon plant of the American Vitriol Products company has begun loading cars from the yard stocks, the latter having been accumulating for some time.

During the pre-election period very little shipping was done from this plant, but since Tuesday of last week the steel interests have become active in placing business for immediate requirements, and this is reflected in the demands for the special line manufactured at the Lisbon plant of this company.

MURPHY WILL BE GUEST AT DINNER

Notices have been received in Lisbon to the effect a dinner will be tendered Congressman B. Frank Murphy to his friends in the Ft. Steuben hotel, Steubenville, at noon Friday next. A number of people from this county have been asked to be guests upon this occasion, which is in honor of the reelection of Mr. Murphy to congress from the Eighteenth district of Ohio.

Cited for Contempt. For the second time Roy B. Hill has been cited for contempt by Judge James G. Moore, which follows the granting of a divorce to Mrs. Freda Hill from her husband. The plaintiff is represented by K. L. Coburn, of Salem.

Mrs. Hill was awarded $1,000 alimony and $7.50 per week for the support of their child. On September 22 Hill was cited for contempt, and another contempt order has just been issued, requiring him to appear in court December 1, next.

Seeks Citizenship. Andrew Devereux, aged 27 years, a metallurgist, residing in Lisbon, has applied for his first naturalization papers. Examination of the applicant developed that his mother was a native of Ireland, and that his father was a native of France. It was in Mexico that Andrew Devereux was born, and because of this he was compelled to seek American citizenship papers.

Degrees Conferred. At a special meeting of Clarkson grange No. 1802 the ladies' degree team of Elkrum grange exemplified the third and fourth degrees upon a class of 10 candidates, the ritual having been letter perfect by the degree team workers. Following the degree work a reception was held for the new members and lunch was served.

Judgment Rendered. Judgment by default has been rendered in the case of William K. Noble against the Adamant Porcelain company for $588.23 and costs, which includes interest. The claim was for brokerage.

Seriously Charged. On an old standing charge "Diamond" Franks has been arrested in Lisbon and will be given a hearing before Probate Judge Lodge Riddle within the next few days. He was charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor, and soon after the charge was filed Franks left the county and did not return until recently, when he was arrested and placed in the custody of Sheriff Gomer Lewis.

The mother of Franks pleaded with Judge Riddle to release the young man from jail pending a hearing.

DOG LICENSE TAGS STILL IN DEMAND

On account of the demand for dog license tags, another supply has just been received by Deputy County Auditor Randall Hamilton. Up to noon Wednesday 5,227 license tags had been issued so far this year, but requests for tags keep coming into the office of Mr. Hamilton.

A new high record has been reached by issuing dog licenses this year. The bulk of the fees collected by law are eventually diverted to the funds of the county board of education.

COST OF ELECTION IS RUNNING HIGH

Elections are costly, according to totals just announced by County Auditor Charles E. Hamilton. The cost of the election No. 4 today is placed at $5,513.96 which includes the cost of the printing of the ballots. Rental cost is incomplete, and a number of orders for such payments are yet to be received from the county board of elections.

It is the opinion of those in the office of the auditor that the cost of the election will go between $6,000 and $7,000.

Hearing Appeals. The Court of Appeals expects to close all cases listed for argument in this county Thursday, but in addition to cases from this county, a number of cases from other counties are also being argued before the court.

Decision will not be handed down until Friday, according to the present schedule.

Harvard and Navy Coaches to Lose Jobs, Says Gossip

Shakeup In Leading College Staffs May Occur This Winter

Folwell and Fisher Said to Head List of Those to go; Alterations in Big Ten Ranks Also Mentioned.

By Davis J. Walsh.
NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—According to the best advices here, as many as a half dozen coaches of leading college teams may find themselves beheaded at the end of the present football season.

Foremost among the alleged candidates for the guillotine are Bob Folwell, of the Naval Academy, because his is the most exacting post in football, and Bob Fisher, of Harvard, largely because his team happened to have a bad day against Princeton. Lose a few big games, nowadays, and volunteer ballplayers begin carrying you right out.

The writer recently concluded a flying trip through the middle west and there he learned from sources, authoritative and several, that two of the big ten coaches were due to go. The names of Spaulding, of Minnesota, and Jack Ryan, of Wisconsin, were mentioned. Neither has had a successful season, although Ryan can point to indifferent material as the answer. Spaulding, however, is alleged to have had fair enough prospects at the start of the season.

As for Folwell, it is known that the navy's dissatisfaction antedates the present campaign. He has had good teams during his regime of five years at Annapolis and has more than held his own with the army, but football men have short memories. It has been said, with some justice, that Folwell's teams have lacked the punch and there one has the tip-off on the navy. They have won for the most part, but they are not satisfied.

When a man graduates from a university, he plunges into business and remembers his football only when the big game comes. A naval officer has only two real interests, namely, the navy itself and his football team. A civilian coach sits in a tough spot there. The writer is not conversant with Fisher's position at Harvard and is merely retelling current gossip in mentioning the possibility of a change there. Fisher's contract might have another year or so to run. But it is fact, not fancy, that he is the kind of a man who would tear it up if he thought this action would serve the best interests of his university.

A good coach, following the Haughton system almost to the letter, Fisher has been markedly unsuccessful during recent years and it is no Masonic secret that some Harvard men are dissatisfied with him. The talk now runs to the return of first principles and the reclamation of Harvard football, such as Haughton achieved back in 1908. Many seem to think that this can be achieved only by a change in the coaching staff and the candidacy of Percy Wendell, former Harvard captain now coaching at Williams, has been launched, probably without his knowledge or consent.

The resignation of Bob Roper at Princeton has been mentioned from time to time as an accepted fact; yet the writer expects Roper to be back on the job next fall, thereby agreeing with the gentlemen, himself. In a recent conversation, I mentioned his impending withdrawal and received the following answer:

"Don't be too sure of that. I like football and coaching too much to drop out like that without giving the matter further consideration."

Princeton will see that Roper's "consideration" is a favorable one. In fact,

I think he is making use of the situation to pep up his team for the big games by asking his young men "to make his last year a good one". He did this before the Harvard game last week.

Whether Columbia will care to string along with Dr. Paul Withington for another season is a question. Columbia wants a big figure to replace the late Percy Haughton and while Withington is a Haughton man, it is not certain that he will be retained, unless his team shows something very good in the remaining games.

W. J. PANTHERS FACE BIG TILT

Outcome of Saturday Clash Regarded by Many as Toss-up.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 12.—University of Pittsburgh and Washington and Jefferson college will engage in their twenty-fifth annual football game at Forbes field, Pittsburgh, Saturday, the kickoff being at 2:30. In a preliminary the Pitt and W. & J. freshmen will meet at 12:30. A crowd which will pack Forbes field to the very limit and should number at least 32,000 will witness the game.

Pitt and W. & J. have been meeting since 1890, the University being known as the Western University of Pennsylvania from 1890 to 1907. No games were played from 1896 to 1904. In this span of 35 years the University has won 12 games and W. & J. 12, although W. & J. has scored three more points for a total of 236 as against Pitt's 232. The game in 1890 was won by W. & J. by the score of 34-0. They also won in 1891, 1892, 1893 and 1895. The University won its first game in 1905 by the score of 11-0. In recent years Pitt has had a big advantage over its ancient rivals, winning eight out of nine games. W. & J.'s victory in 1921 was the lone set back for the Panthers, the Red and Black then being coached by "Greasy" Neale.

The game next Saturday seems to be a toss up. Pitt's showing against Lafayette was much better than the game which W. & J. played against the Maroon at New York, but results of the games this season clearly show that big football games cannot be judged on comparative scores. When Pitt and W. & J. meet it is a battle from start to finish with the breaks usually playing important parts of the games. Both teams will present their full strength Saturday, and it is a safe prediction that neither team will win by a big margin.

The Pitt and W. & J. Varsity will line up with both teams shy many of the lads who started the 1923 contest. On the present team only Chase, Johnson, Wissinger and Gustafson who started last year's game are likely to be available. Of the 1923 W. & J. lineup Haddon, Berghsen, Wild, Baisista and Harmony are still in line.

After the W. & J. game Pitt's final contest is with Penn State at Forbes Field on Thanksgiving day. This will be the last game played by the Panthers at Forbes Field as the mammoth Pitt stadium, seating 70,000, will be ready for the 1925 season. Pitt has been playing at Forbes Field and its predecessor, old Exposition Park in Allegheny, for 20 years, but the great worth of football interest in western Pennsylvania has made the Pirates' baseball field entirely inadequate to handle the large crowds who desire to see the game. The Pitt stadium will cost $2,100,000 and will be financed by a bond issue carrying ticket purchasing privileges to the games.

State Tightens Defense.
COLUMBUS, Nov. 12.—Tightening of the defense of the Ohio State eleven which meets Michigan here next Saturday is occupying a majority of the practice periods. Coach Wilce is using his freshmen team, employing Michigan plays, as opposing for the Varsity.

"Red" Grange's Rival

Ralph Baker (above), star of the Northwestern University eleven, is Red Grange's rival for scoring honors in the Big Ten this year. This despite the fact that Illinois has the most powerful eleven in the conference and Northwestern has usually been a weak sister.

SPEARS WARNS W. V. U. GRIDDERS

Cautions Against Overconfidence in W. & L. Game.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 12.—For the third consecutive year West Virginia is to meet Washington and Lee on the Saturday following a notable victory over some prominent eleven. In 1922 the Mountaineer machine met the Generals after defeating Pitt, 9-6. Last year the W. & L. game followed a sensational triumph over the same Rutgers team creating such a stir this fall and now the Mountaineers after a decisive win from Colgate are again preparing for the game this Saturday at Layday Stadium, Charleston, with the Generals.

Everyone admits that the West Virginia squad was over-confident when it played Washington and Lee in 1922. The men were unable to take the game seriously and let up after scoring two touchdowns. The team from Lexington, Va., kept fighting and near the end of the game unleashed an aerial attack that gave it a 12-12 tie with the eleven that went through the season undefeated.

The Mountaineers were "fighting mad" when they went against W. & L. last year. They forgot how good they were in the splendid victory over Rutgers and gave Coach DeHart's squad a 63-0 drubbing.

Until last Saturday the Mountaineer eleven had given its followers very little in return for their wholehearted support. At best their work was mediocre. Against Colgate, however, their playing was next to perfect and there are many who believe that the game was the turning point of the present campaign.

If West Virginia is traveling in the right direction after weeks of uncertainty Saturday's battle with Washington and Lee is going to be a thriller. The Mountaineers are working hard to get in shape for the Generals and to offset the possibility of disappointing southern adherents who will be expecting something out of the ordinary after the Colgate triumph.

Greys Are Defeated By Sebring, 9-0, In Armistice Day Game

Hogue, of Toronto Tigers, is Mainspring of Visitors' Attack Which Nets Touchdown and 30-yard Field Goal.

With Fullback Hogue, of the Toronto Tigers, the mainspring of the attack, the Sebring Christy Billiards scored twice on the East Liverpool Greys Tuesday afternoon at Patterson Field, once by the touchdown route and on another occasion by a drop kick, registering a 9 to 0 victory.

Hogue figured in both scores. The sole touchdown was the result of a forward pass in the territory of the Greys in the second quarter. Hogue tossed 25 yards to Right End Matticks who went 10 more yards to the goal line. In the final period Hogue booted the ball between the post from the 30 yard mark for three more points.

The Greys outplayed the visitors through the first quarter and during the opening minutes of the second period but apparently weakened thereafter and permitted the Sebringites to penetrate to scoring territory on several occasions.

The play during most of the opening quarter was staged in the Christy's half of the field but the locals were unable to summon, at the proper moment, the punch to take them to the goal posts. Frequent fumbles on both sides kept the teams in hot water.

In the closing minutes of the second quarter, the visitors launched a forward passing attack which took them to the Greys' 35. Here Hogue made the final heave of the drive to Matticks who grabbed the ball, shook off two tacklers and squirmed over the goal line. The Greys broke thru the line and blocked the try for point.

The third quarter was comparatively uneventful with neither side having any decided advantage. The visitors, in final period, worked the ball into scoring distance again, and failing to break through the Greys' line sent Hogue back to kick. His effort was 100 percent perfect, the ball sailing high and straight across the bar.

Hogue, Matticks and Quarterback

Ward were the outstanding performers for the visitors. The entire local line showed exceptional strength in the face of heavier opposition while the running of Walter McVey and Bailey accounted for many Greys' gains.

The lineup:

Sebring	Greys
Minesinger.....L.E.	Moore
McBane.....L.T.	C. Smith
Hazel.....L.G.	J. Smith
Moore.....C.	Shenkle
D. Cameron.....R.G.	Anderson
Baumgardner.....R.T.	Matticks
Matticks.....R.E.	Golden
K. Ward.....Q.	Plant
Jacobs.....L.H.	McVey
Hague.....R.H.	Bailey
Freeless.....F.	Walters

Touchdown—Matticks.
Field goal—Hogue.
Referee—Boone (East Liverpool).
Umpire—Jackson (Sebring).
Head Linesman—Smith (East Liverpool).

Harvard and Navy Coaches to Lose Jobs, Says Gossip

Shakeup In Leading College Staffs May Occur This Winter

Folwell and Fisher Said to Head List of Those to go; Alterations in Big Ten Ranks Also Mentioned.

By Davis J. Walsh.
NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—According to the best advice here, as many as a half dozen coaches of leading college teams may find themselves headed at the end of the present football season.

Foremost among the alleged candidates for the guillotine are Bob Folwell, of the Naval Academy, because his is the most exacting post in football, and Bob Fisher, of Harvard, largely because his team happened to have a bad day against Princeton. Lose a few big games, nowadays, and volunteer pallbearers begin carrying you right out.

The writer recently concluded a flying trip through the middle west and there he learned from sources, authoritative and several, that two of the big ten coaches were due to go. The names of Spaulding, of Minnesota, and Jack Ryan, of Wisconsin, were mentioned. Neither has had a successful season, although Ryan can point to indifferent material as the answer. Spaulding, however, is alleged to have had fair enough prospects at the start of the season.

As for Folwell, it is known that the navy's dissatisfaction antedates the present campaign. He has had good teams during his regime of five years at Annapolis and has more than held his own with the army, but football men have short memories. It has been said, with some justice, that Folwell's teams have lacked the punch and there one has the tip-off on the navy. They have won for the most part, but they are not satisfied.

When a man graduates from a university, he plunges into business and remembers his football only when the big game comes. A naval officer has only two real interests, namely, the navy itself and his football team. A civilian coach sits in a tough spot there. The writer is not conversant with Fisher's position at Harvard and is merely retelling current gossip in mentioning the possibility of a change there. Fisher's contract might have another year or so to run. But it is fact, not fancy, that he is the kind of a man who would tear it up if he thought this action would serve the best interests of his university.

A good coach, following the Houghton system almost to the letter, Fisher has been markedly unsuccessful during recent years and it is no Masonic secret that some Harvard men are dissatisfied with him. The talk now runs to the return of first principles and the reclamation of Harvard football, such as Houghton achieved back in 1908. Many seem to think that this can be achieved only by a change in the coaching staff and the candidacy of Percy Wendell, former Harvard captain now coaching at Williams, has been launched, probably without his knowledge or consent.

The resignation of Bob Roper at Princeton has been mentioned from time to time as an accepted fact; yet the writer expects Roper to be back on the job next fall, thereby agreeing with the gentlemen himself. In a recent conversation, I mentioned his impending withdrawal and received the following answer:

"Don't be too sure of that. I like football and coaching too much to drop out like that without giving the matter further consideration."

Princeton will see that Roper's "consideration" is a favorable one. In fact,

I think he is making use of the situation to pop up his team for the big games by asking his young men "to make his last year a good one". He did this before the Harvard game last week.

Whether Columbia will care to string along with Dr. Paul Withington for another season is a question. Columbia wants a big figure to replace the late Percy Houghton and while Withington is a Houghton man, it is not certain that he will be retained, unless his team shows something very good in the remaining games.

W. J. PANTHERS FACE BIG TILT

Outcome of Saturday Clash Regarded by Many as Toss-up.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 12.—University of Pittsburgh and Washington and Jefferson college will engage in their twenty-fifth annual football game at Forbes field, Pittsburgh, Saturday, the kickoff being at 2:30. In a preliminary the Pitt and W. & J. freshmen will meet at 12:30. A crowd which will pack Forbes field to the very limit and should number at least 22,000 will witness the game.

Pitt and W. & J. have been meeting since 1890, the University being known as the Western University of Pennsylvania from 1890 to 1907. No games were played from 1896 to 1904. In this span of 35 years the University has won 12 games and W. & J. 12, although W. & J. has scored three more points for a total of 236 as against Pitt's 225. The game in 1890 was won by W. & J. by the score of 34-0. They also won in 1891, 1892, 1893 and 1895. The University won its first game in 1905 by the score of 11-0. In recent years Pitt has had a big advantage over its ancient rivals, winning eight out of nine games. W. & J. victory in 1921 was the lone setback for the Panthers, the Red and Black then being coached by "Greasy" Neale.

The game next Saturday seems to be a toss up. Pitt's showing against Lafayette was much better than the game which W. & J. played against the Maroon at New York, but results of the games this season clearly show that big football games cannot be judged on comparative scores. When Pitt and W. & J. meet it is a battle from start to finish with the breaks usually playing important parts of the game. Both teams will present their full strength Saturday, and it is a safe prediction that neither team will win by a big margin.

The Pitt and W. & J. Varsity will line up with both teams shy many of the lads who started the 1923 contest. On the present team only Chase, Johnson, Wissinger and Gustafson who started last year's game are likely to start Saturday, although Gwosden is also available. Of the 1923 W. & J. lineup Haddon, Berresen, Wild, Baisista and Harmony are still in line.

After the W. & J. game Pitt's final contest is with Penn State at Forbes Field on Thanksgiving day. This will be the last game played by the Panthers at Forbes Field as the mammoth Pitt stadium, seating 70,000, will be ready for the 1925 season. Pitt has been playing at Forbes Field and its predecessor, old Exposition Park in Allegheny, for 20 years, but the great work of football interest in western Pennsylvania has made the Pirates' baseball field entirely inadequate to handle the large crowds who desire to see the game. The Pitt stadium will cost $2,100,000 and will be financed by a bond issue carrying ticket purchasing privileges to the games.

HUGGINS PLANS HOUSE CLEANING

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Reports in circulation today were to the effect that a general house cleaning is being planned by the New York Yankees, with Everett Scott, shortstop, and Whitely Witt, outfielder, slated to go to other teams. The club, it was said, is in the market for Ken Williams star outfielder and home run hitter of the St. Louis Browns, and is willing to give up the necessary players to get him. The Yanks, however, are believed to have declined to include Waite Hoyt, star pitcher, in the proposed deal.

BASEBALL WAR IS ON AGAIN

Johnson-Comiskey Verbal Hostilities Break Out Anew.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—The war between Ban Johnson, President of the American League, and Charles Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, smoldering since the days of the Black Sox, has broken out afresh.

The flare-up came as a result of a statement credited to Comiskey, in which the club owner was reported to have said that Johnson's idea of barring the giants from playing in the last world's series because of the Dolan-O'Connell scandal was idiotic.

"If Mr. Comiskey wants to criticize me for the attitude taken by me relative to barring McGraw's ball club from the recent world's series because of the charges under which it rested, and which haven't been cleared up to anybody's satisfaction, I am ready for the issue," said Johnson.

"Mr. Comiskey, in my opinion, is an incompetent witness when it comes to any sort of testimony or statement regarding the stand to be taken when the safety of the National game is at stake.

"In the light of recent occurrences, it seems unfortunate that the National Commissioner was not sufficiently informed as to facts that would have made possible the calling off of the series of 1919, Comiskey, by his last statement, plainly holds the dollar paramount to the integrity of baseball."

Students To Go With Team.
CINCINNATI, Nov. 12.—When the University of Cincinnati football team starts for Wooster Friday more than 200 gridders will accompany the players, for although the squad still is handicapped by injuries, the Burnet Woods eleven expects to make a better showing against Wooster than that made against Oberlin last Saturday.

Canada Does Not Intend to Neglect Fishing Industry
HALIFAX, N. S. — That Canada does not intend to neglect her fisheries is evidenced by the announcement that the department of fisheries and marine has appropriated $70,000 for the establishment of a fisheries school, to be to the maritime provinces what the experimental farms are to the agricultural sections. A staff of scientists, appointed by the Biological Board of Canada, will work in cooperation with the Dalhousie University and the Nova Scotia Technical College in instructing those interested in the fishing industry.

After he noticed the smiles on faces peering into the windows, he yanked the bandages, etc., and installed toilet waters and the like in their places.

Resolution No. 331

DECLARING IT NECESSARY TO IMPROVE SECOND STREET FROM THE CLEVELAND AND PITTSBURGH RAILROAD TO THE WEST SIDE OF MARKET STREET BY RESURFACING, REPAIRING AND RECONSTRUCTING THE SAME; BY REPAIRING THE ROADWAY OVER THE PAYMENT WITH TARTAR, SHEET ASPHALT, ASPHALTIC CONCRETE, WILLITE PROCESS; RE-ENFORCED CONCRETE OR OTHER MATERIAL TO THE FULL WIDTH OF THE SAME SO FAR AS PRACTICAL BY PUTTING IN NEW CURBS, WHERE NECESSARY; BY REPAIRING OR RECONSTRUCTING OR RE-ENFORCING THEREIN WHERE NECESSARY, WATER LINES, GAS, SEWER AND WATER CONNECTIONS, RETAINING WALLS, SEWERS, CULVERTS, DITCHES, GUTTERS AND DRAINS, ETC.

Be it resolved by the Council of the City of East Liverpool, Ohio:

SECTION 1. That it is necessary to improve Second Street from the Cleveland and Pittsburgh Railroad to the West Side of Market Street by resurfacing, repairing and reconstructing the same; by repairing the roadway over the payment with tartar, sheet asphalt, asphaltic concrete, re-enforced concrete or other material to the full width of the same so far as practical by putting in new curbs, where necessary, reconstructing and re-enforcing therein where necessary water lines, gas, sewer and water connections, retaining walls, sewers, culverts, ditches, gutters and drains and doing everything else necessary or needed for the proper completion of said improvement in accordance with the plan.

SECTION 2. That the notes or bonds of the City of East Liverpool, Ohio, shall be issued in anticipation of the levy and collection of the assessments by installments and in an amount equal thereto.

SECTION 3. That the remainder of the entire cost and expense of said improvement not specifically assessed shall be paid out of the Maintenance and Repair Fund to the extent that it is possible and expedient so to do and the balance thereof, if any, shall be paid by the issuance of bonds in the manner provided by law.

SECTION 4. That said improvement has been found, and is hereby declared to be conducive to and necessary for the public health, convenience and welfare.

SECTION 5. That this resolution shall take effect and be in force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

Passed this 25th day of October, 1924.

L. T. CAPELHART, President of Council.

JOHN N. GEORGE, Clerk of Council, Pro Tem.

Approved by the Mayor this 25th day of October, 1924.

BASEBALL WAR IS ON AGAIN

Johnson-Comiskey Verbal Hostilities Break Out Anew.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—The war between Ban Johnson, President of the American League, and Charles Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, smoldering since the days of the Black Sox, has broken out afresh.

The flare-up came as a result of a statement credited to Comiskey, in which the club owner was reported to have said that Johnson's idea of barring the Giants from playing in the last world's series because of the Dolan-O'Connell scandal was idiotic.

"If Mr. Comiskey wants to criticize me for the attitude taken by me relative to barring McGraw's ball club from the recent world's series because of the charges under which it rested, and which haven't been cleared up to anybody's satisfaction, I am ready for the issue," said Johnson.

"Mr. Comiskey, in my opinion, is an incompetent witness when it comes to testimony or statement regarding the stand to be taken when the safety of the National game is at stake.

"In the light of recent occurrences, it seems unfortunate that the National Commissioner was not sufficiently informed as to facts that would have made possible the calling off of the made series of 1919. Comiskey, by his last statement, plainly holds the dollar paramount to the integrity of baseball."

Students To Go With Team.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 12.—When the University of Cincinnati football team starts for Wooster Friday more than 200 graders will accompany the players, for although the squad still is handicapped by injuries, the Burnett Woods eleven expects to make a better showing against Wooster than that made against Oberlin last Saturday.

Canada Does Not Intend to Neglect Fishing Industry

HALIFAX, N. S. — That Canada does not intend to neglect her fisheries is evidenced by the announcement that the department of fisheries and marine has appropriated $70,000 for the establishment of a fisheries school, to be to the maritime provinces what the experimental farms are to the agricultural sections. A staff of scientists, appointed by the Biological Board of Canada, will work in co-operation with the Dalhousie University and the Nova Scotia Technical College in instructing those interested in the fishing industry.

Display Didn't Mix.

BARNESVILLE.—A display of safe razors in one window and adhesive tape, bandages, etc., in an adjoining window attracted attention that had not been anticipated by the advertising druggist. After he noticed the smiles on faces peering into the windows, he yanked the bandages, et al., and installed toilet waters and the like in their places.

Insurance that covers your home — protects them, too

Your home was built for you, your wife and your children. If fire destroys it, and it is uninsured you may not be able to build again. You will lose your home—your children their inheritance.

This agency will assure you of a home after loss by fire if you insure your property in the Hartford Insurance Company. For over a century, the Hartford has been helping property owners to rebuild, after fire comes.

YOUR HEALTH

Banish Tuberculosis
by Living ScientificallyBy ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND

WITH every passing year the Great White Plague is becoming less dreaded. Tuberculosis is yielding to the better living conditions of modern life.

It was not long ago that one funeral out of every seven was of a victim of this disease. Worse than this, most of the deaths were of young persons in their teens and early twenties.

Health agencies have won laurels in combating tuberculosis. The improved ways of living have also done much to reduce illness of other sorts.

If you have not thought about it, you will be surprised how the death rate has fallen during the past ten years. In every civilized country, and particularly in communities where the health authorities give heed to the protection of the public, there is an astonishing improvement in the statistics. The death rate is lower and the number of persons attacked is less.

Mark Twain used to tell about the wonderful climate in the West, saying that doctors were almost unnecessary. He said, "they were arrested for vagrancy every month, having no visible means of support."

I am sure every doctor will join in the rejoicing when the glorious day comes that disease is unknown. Of course, that will be a long time from now, but doctors themselves are hastening its coming. They are doing all they can to find the causes of disease. When they succeed in this, it will not be long before the means of cure will be discovered.

In the case of tuberculosis it has been a vain search to locate a chemical or medical cure or prevention. Many scientists are at work on the problem and we may venture to hope that one day we shall have it. Hardly a day passes in the experience of a health official but somebody presents a "sure cure" for tuberculosis. All such claims are and should be viewed with suspicion.

Sometimes people express their disapproval of the reluctance of doctors to acknowledge the merits of alleged cures for this or that disease. But as it takes more than one swallow to make a summer, it takes more than a few examples of apparent cures to demonstrate the real value of a remedy.

If a consumptive were to pin his faith too long to a cure for the disease, it might be too late for known methods of beneficial treatment to be applied. Just as fast as it is safe and proper the advances in medicine are being given to the public through the doctors who know how to apply them.

It is unwise to accept as valuable any remedy for a disease usually considered incurable, unless it has first been tested and approved by well-known and scientific physicians. No one should gamble with his health and life by self-experimentation with a "cure" which somebody has recommended.

My advice to the tuberculous is to talk fully with your family doctor.

Answers to Health Questions

MRS. D. M. C. Q.—Does shaving the eyebrows thicken them?
2.—Would you advise doing this?
3.—Does going without breakfast tend to reduce one?

A.—Yes, and it will make the hairs coarse.
2.—No, it is a foolish habit.
3.—Yes, slowly.

W. J. S. Q.—Is too much sleep harmful?
2.—Does taking a "digestion pill" weaken the heart?

A.—No, sleep is not harmful.
2.—It depends upon what is contained in the pill. Why not correct the indigestion? For full particulars, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope, restating your question.

P. E. M. Q.—What are the symptoms of appendicitis? How long is it before it becomes serious?

A.—Pain in the right side, vomiting, headache, gases, and in some instances fever, are the symptoms. This would depend upon the individual case and whether or not the trouble was chronic.

DAILY READER. Q.—Which is better to use when washing in the morning—hot or cold water?
2.—Kindly advise me about—

A.—Both. Wash with hot water and soap and rinse your face and hands with cold water.
2.—For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope, restating your question.

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND

Every so often we hear the cry that we must have new faces in pictures. Well there is one company that is supplying this need so fast that it fairly makes one dizzy. One week they announce that Cecil DeMille has nominated and elected a little unknown by the name of Vere Reynolds to star in a big production, the next we hear that a novice, Betty Bronson, has been assigned to the role of "Peter Pan," which leaves us shivering in anticipation—wondering if Jesse Lasky and Sir James Barrie have killed our immortal boy or whether a new wonder star has risen in the movie sky.

And now they have given the leading role in "The Swan," in which Elsie Ferguson was to have come back to the screen, to Frances Howard, a young woman who has never before been in pictures. Miss Howard, however, has this advantage over Vere and Betty, she has already—although only 19—made her mark as a talented and trained actress of the speaking stage. She was a member of the cast of "Best People," playing at the Lyceum theatre, New York City, when Jesse L. Lasky happened to attend a performance. With Mr. Lasky was Miss Sari Fedak, wife of Mr. Molnar, author of "The Swan," and when Frances appeared Miss Fedak remarked that there was the girl to take Miss Ferguson's place.

Next day screen tests were taken, the results were satisfactory and Frances was launched on her film career.

Frances Howard was born in Chicago and ran away from home when only 14 to go on the stage. She obtained a small part in the musical comedy, "Oh, Lady, Lady," played in another musical show and then got her first part in straight comedy in "The ing the summer she played leads in stock companies.

"The Swan" was produced with great success on the stage with Eva Le Gallienne in the title role. The Polish director, Buchowetzki, will direct, and Ricardo Cortez and Adolphe Menjou are the male leads.

Mae Marsh and little daughter are "at home" in Hollywood, they tell us, after several months in Europe where Mae played the lead in "Araballa."

Eugene O'Brien and Laura LaPlante are to have the leads in Pamela Wynne's novel, "Ann's an Idiot," which will appear on the screen as "Dangerous Innocence." We are also told that Mary Philbin has been chosen by Rupert Julian for the part of Christine in "The Phantom of the Opera."

Alma Rubens has completed Universal's "Stairway of Hope" and will appear next in a Graham Wilcox production to be made abroad. This is the company that produced "Chu Chin Chow" and "Southern Love" with Betty Blythe.

Pedro de Cordoba, of "The Bandidero" company, has been visiting friends in Spain since the screens for the picture were "shot" there and has just returned to this country.
